Look
deep into the souls of men, discover infinite potential.

Look beyond,
notice the little differences that make each individual unique, appreciate beauty
in the common things of life.

Visualize dreams and hopes that seem impossible.

Penetrate the throngs of people and see individuals.

Look beyond,
find the purpose of living,
find the values of life and find

Look beyond,
recognize people caring,
trying to understand,
guiding toward self realization and truth.

ADMINISTRATION

SCHOOL BOARD approves dress code, buys home

Cache County School Board received high parental backing in a change of dress codes according to USU pollster, Dr. Jones. The new policy permitted girls to wear pants year-round for the first time.

Other changes the board approved for Sky View included a new Drivers' Ed practice range, making possible instruction of more students at less cost. A new Drivers' Ed quonset housed 65 students.

Fast growing Home Ec and Art classes moved into the home built by Sky View construction class and purchased by the Board. The upper floor with its homey setting provided an ideal nursery for the child development class. The new 16 foot kiln, pottery damp room, and additional work space in the home's basement expanded Ceramic class activities.

PRINCIPAL shows support, attends every activity

Principal Steven Thurston believed in treating students as individuals and showed he supported them by attending all extracurricular activities.

He crowded his day with school activities, meetings, assembly scheduling, student conferences and paperwork. Spare moments were spent in the hall talking directly with students to better understand their feelings, desires and goals.

He made himself available without appointments and especially enjoyed, "Observing people from varied backgrounds working as a group to help the group and each individual accomplish his goals."

VICE PRINCIPALS assist, plan for school functions

"I think Sky View is the best school in the state," said Leon West. "We have an excellent studentbody."

Vice-principal West managed school lockers, textbook materials and various school activities, as well as following up on attendance. Ordering, examining and numbering over 2000 new books involved hours of time. Mr. West found himself very concerned with students' lack of interest in school and assemblies. Bussing to games also meant worries.

Myron Benson helped with clubs, assemblies, dances, song and cheerleaders, half time performances, intercom announcements and advised the Junior class and Executive Council. "I'm glad to work with the students," said Mr. Benson, "but they carry out the activities."

Top: Expressing need for more history classes, Mr. Jenkins points out an extra large sociology class scheduled for second semester. Mrs. Smith and Mr. Taggart discuss possible solutions with him as they struggle to work out scheduling. Above: Concerned Vice-principal Benson encourages a troubled parent as they discuss student absentee problems over the phone. Right: Checking his file, Mr. West searches for the information he needs concerning an outside singing group to perform at the next assembly.

SECRETARIES vital to student, faculty school day

With the phone ringing every five minutes, Olene Ransom, Principal Thurston's secretary declared, "There's never a dull moment in this main office."

Over 250 checks written by Mrs. Blair paid Sky View bills each month. Mrs. Blair also managed the bookstore and recorded all school expenditures in a monthly report.

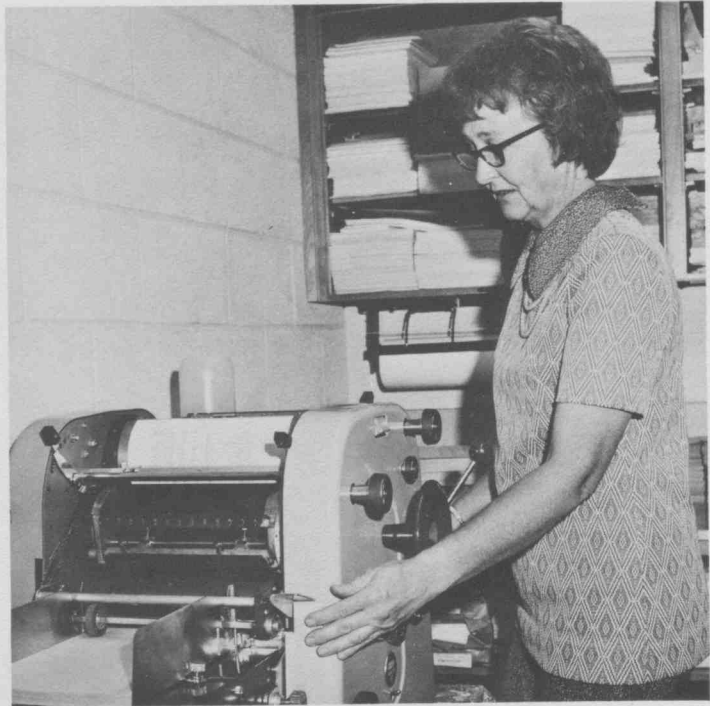

Newly hired Elaine Moulton served as a secretary to the counselors as well as keeping transcripts and student reports.

Mrs. Christensen managed lunch tickets and mail during her half-day at Sky View. Knowing the whereabouts of 1500 students involved paperwork, records and phone calls. Little wonder Mrs. Buttars busied herself and two or three office aid students each hour.

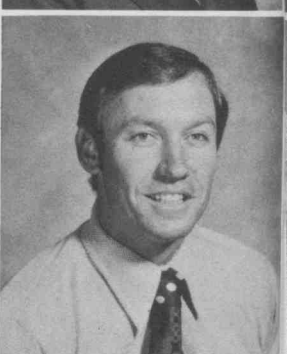

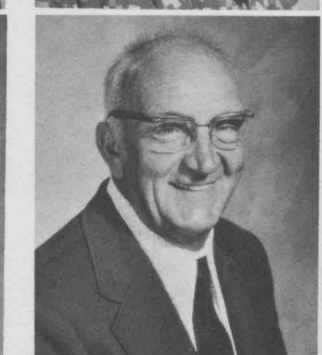

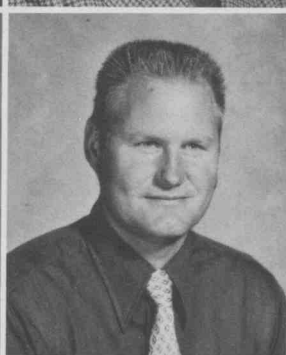

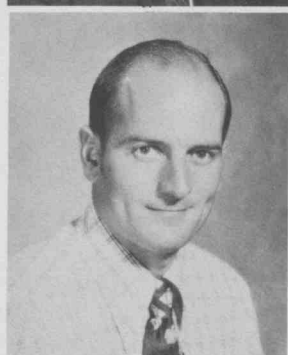

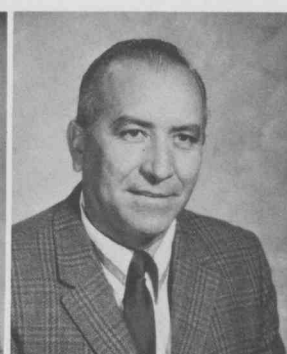

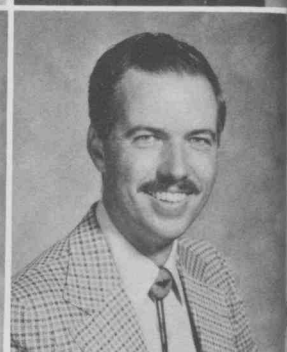

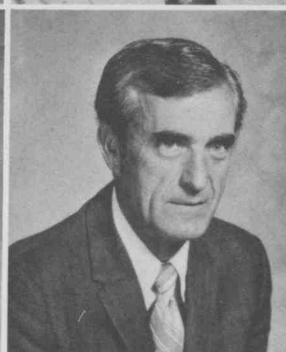

Telling what she appreciated most about Sky View, Mrs. Smith commented she enjoyed working with an administration and teachers who wanted to help students. Mrs. Smith noticed that when questioned about problems students always promised improvement.

"Most student-teacher problems resulted from a lack of communication," Art Jenkins stated, "and were solved by bringing students and teachers together to talk it out." The variety of things to be done made his job interesting although the paperwork of registration and grades was sometimes overwhelming.

Two days never developed the same way for Keith Taggart as he counseled sophomores on school requirements and classes to best prepare them for a future vocation.

Sky-rocketing food prices challenge COOKS' ingenuity

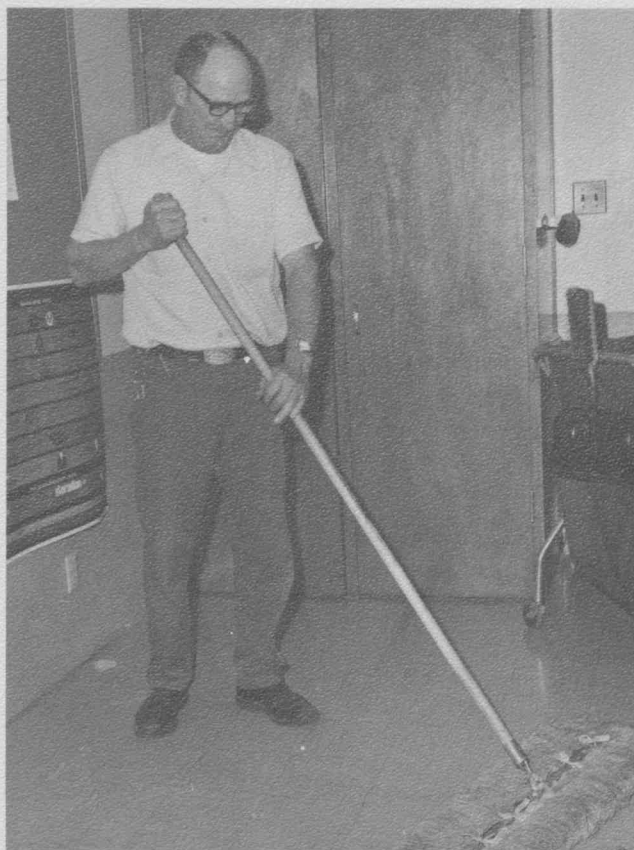

School lunches cost only 10¢ more per meal in spite of rising food costs. Regardless of problems, cooks met all government standards and never used meat extenders or second quality foods. The same percentage of students ate hot lunches, with 1,254 students eating Thanksgiving Dinner.

With regular meals, Sky View students ate 50 loaves of bread daily. Sweet rolls for one day required 120# of flour.

Eight reading aids helped track I English, reading and communication skills, and developmental reading students. Besides previous experience, aids benefited from inservice workshops. With more instructors, students gained from individual help.

CUSTODIANS not hampered severely by energy crisis

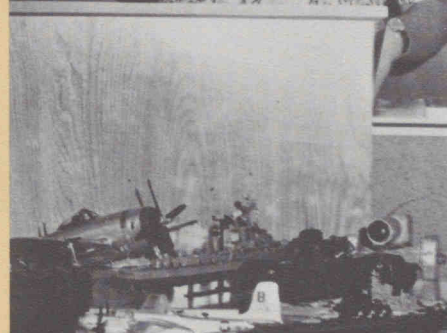

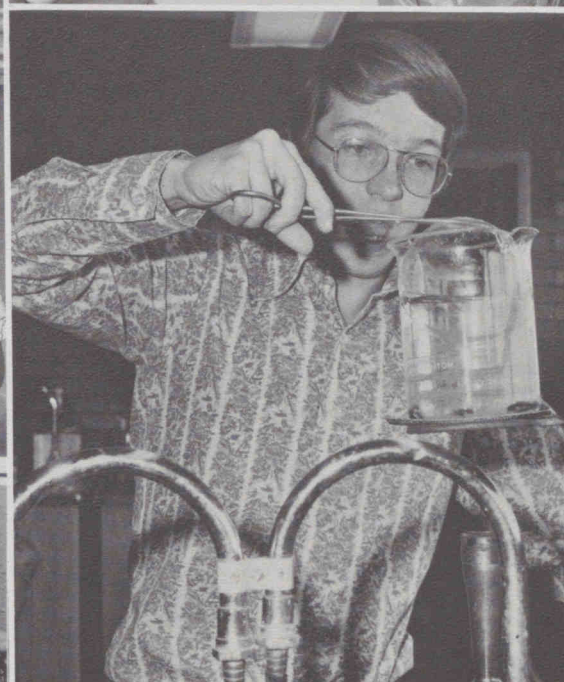

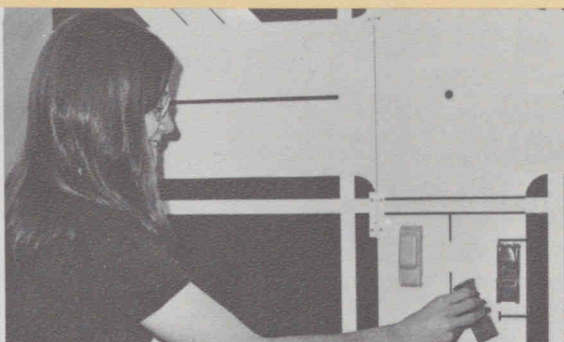

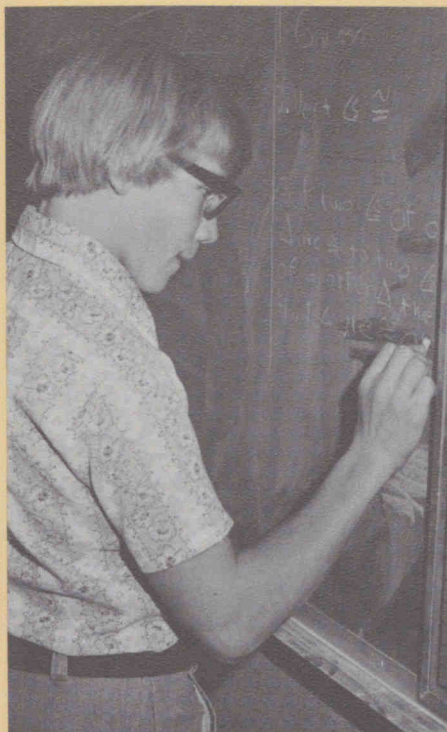

"I can't see that daylight savings time affected Sky View one bit," stated Alma Hatch. Custodians turned off lights the same time as before. Although rumors of a four day week swept the school, the fuel shortage influenced Sky View very little beyond the lowering of temperatures to sixty-eight.

Sky View's heating system ran on natural gas but changed to oil when low temperatures caused a shortage in the valley. Custodians spent hours as usual sweeping halls, repairing equipment and helping students.

Even though buses got only three miles per gallon, they saved fuel by decreasing the need for students to drive. Bus drivers also cut speeds to 50 mph, supporting President Nixon's appeal.

ACADEMICS

BUSINESS classes pattern after local business office

Telephones rang and filing cabinet drawers banged shut in the Secretary and Office Practice block classes. Learning to work in an office situation made it possible to apply for a job after finishing the course. Patterned after the Utah Mortgage and Loan Company in Logan, classes required students to work off-set machines, executive typewriters, printing and electronic calculators.

Shorthand students sent copies of their assignments to the Gregg Publishing Company, who evaluated the penmanship of each student free of charge. Developing notemaking skills, students took notes as Mrs. Tibbets, Media Coordinator, explained the use of the reference section.

Other classes taught in the Business Dept. included type, business machines, record and bookkeeping, data processing.

Senior girls interested in the field of nursing learned the jobs of a nurse's aide. "Many girls thought they would like to become nurses, and actual experience helped them make up their minds," Mrs. Carey the Nurses' Aide teacher explained. The program, new last year, taught the girls to care for the non-professional needs of patients such as taking temperatures and blood pressures, giving bed baths, and offering comfort. The class work consisted of listening to lectures, learning new skills and practicing them at the Sunshine Terrace.

In spite of crowded conditions in the Media Center, student usage of materials increased 15% while faculty usage reached 160%. A portable listening center allowed groups of five to ten students to listen to audio programs from head sets. Additional Audio Tutorial programs included how to use The Reader's Guide, Card Catalog, Indexes, and Almanacs. Teachers used a variable typewriter for making overhead transparencies and slides. In October UEA spotlighted Media Coordinators, Mrs. Tippetts and Mrs. Christensen, as authors of the book, Multi-Media Manual, An Illustrated Guide for Media Coordinators and Librarians.

A revision in the Math curriculum meant teachers taught more geometry classes than before as geometry became a prerequisite to algebra. Teachers developed a study of the metric system to prepare students for U.S. use of the system.

SCIENCE beats fuel crisis with ecological communities

With a nation wide fuel shortage causing extensive cutbacks, even Sky View's Science Department felt the effects. Although students were not able to travel much beyond the valley, a newly acquired ecological study area provided activities for the budding scientists. Located north of the driving range, the project area was to be planted with specimen plants and ecological systems of the different biotic communities in Utah. This would give students a chance to study wildlife within the state.

Geneticists studied birth defects, such as mongoloids, bleeders, and natural abortions. Biologists performed "open heart surgery" on rats, and physiologists studied the possible transplant of the brain.

DRIVERS ED adds car with clutch on new driving range

Learning to use a clutch while changing gears tested the coordination of Drivers Education students this year. A driving range approved by the Board gave the students a chance to try this out. It also helped to teach driving maneuvers on a small scale.

Movies, film strips and visual aids demonstrated how a good driver should handle a car. Rules of the road memorized by the students gave them a better background for a future on the road. Pupils went through all this to reach a long-awaited goal — a license.

GIRLS' P.E. acquires beam for gymnastics department.

Improving their coordination, girls executed mounts and dismounts, turns and routines on the newly acquired balance beam. Working out on the gymnastic equipment gave the girls a chance to let off steam and warm up for the day. Instructors divided girls' P.E. classes according to grade levels—sophomores, juniors and seniors.

Students in both girls' and boys' P.E. also participated in football, basketball, wrestling, field hockey, bowling (sometimes staying after school), volleyball, swimming, tennis, badminton and archery.

Ever felt the urge to become a snowflake or a pine tree in a snowstorm? Modern dance students expressed thoughts and personalities through dancing, portraying what the music suggests.

CADET TEACHERS correct assignments, help students

Creating new bulletin boards, correcting tests and assignments, helping elementary students and assisting teachers were the many tasks performed by students who took Cadet Teaching. With this course students became aware of what takes place in a classroom. After signing up for two or three hour block classes, Mr. Richard Bagley of the Central Office assigned Cadets a school, a teacher and a grade level to assist.

Students in the work study program had the chance to participate in actual job situations. Going to school half a day and working the other half, they helped in such places as Fashion Fabrics, Macey's and KVNU. Working gave these students a chance to be employable when they graduate from high school.

LANGUAGE ARTS video tapes capture laughs

Videotape captured many of the laughs created by the student-made commercials in Speech I. Speech students also learned to tell stories, read poetry, give extemporaneous speeches and act out pantomimes.

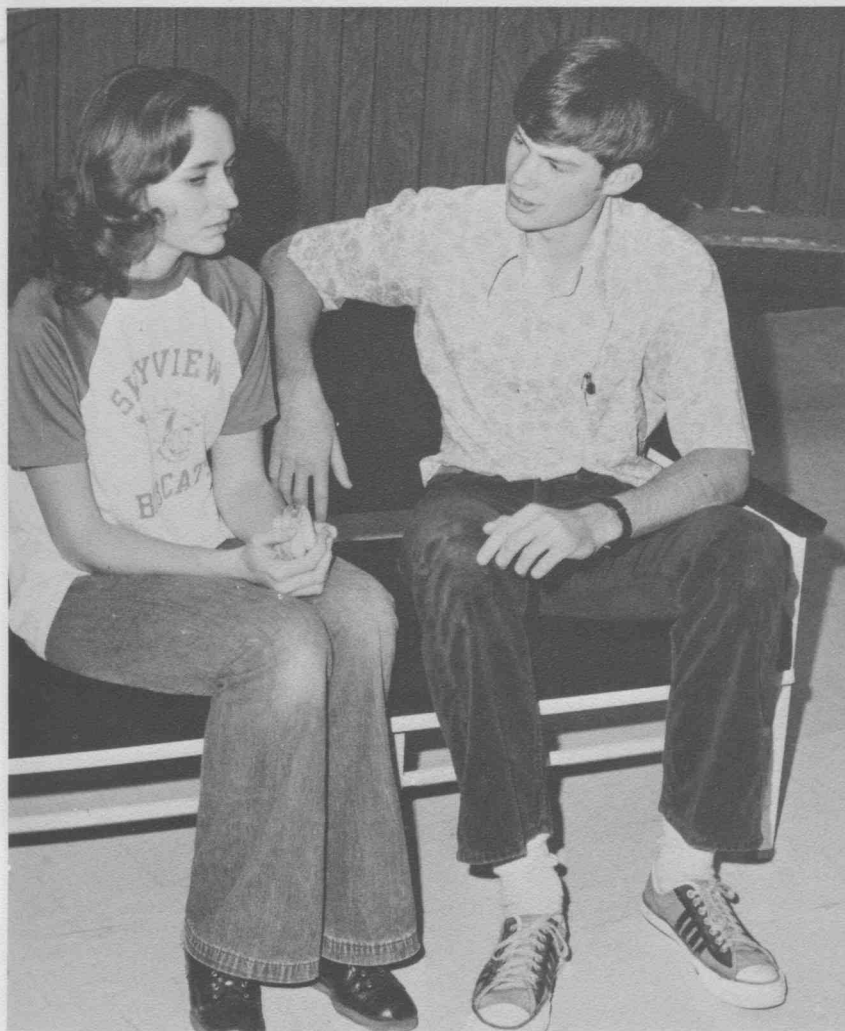

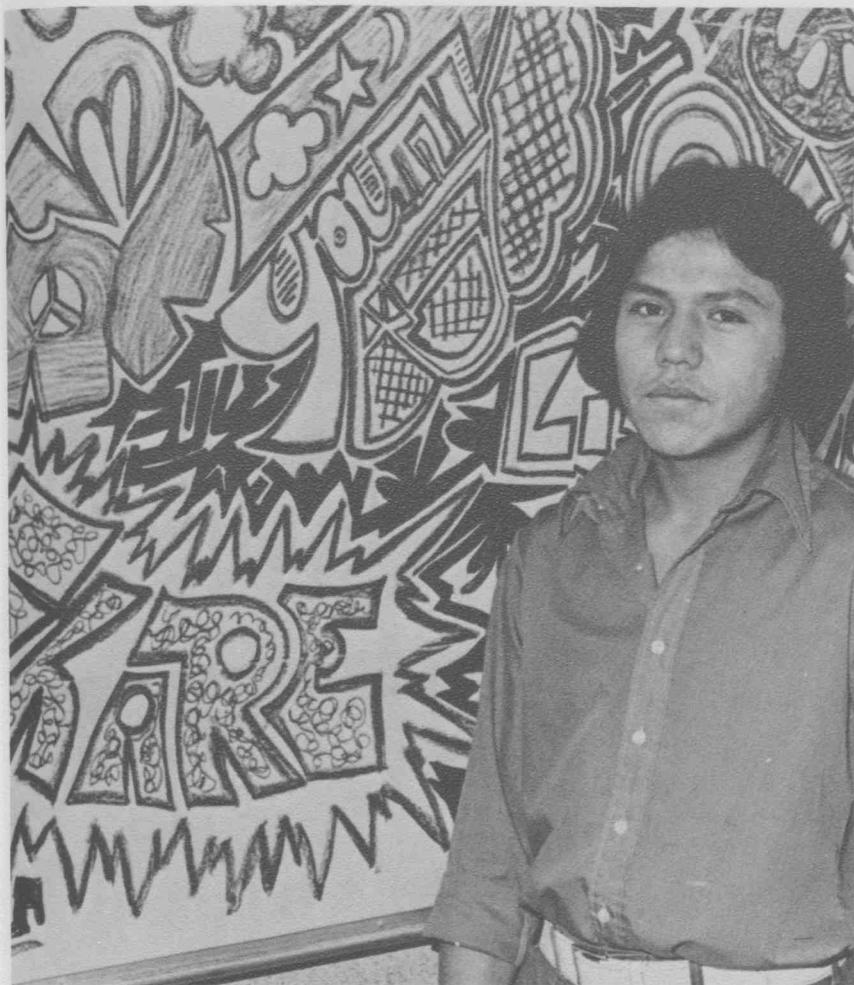

Involving the whole class, students in Drama Productions put on plays and pantomimes. Besides the school play, they also produced many short plays for the public.

Using charcoal, Lorenzo Hogue drew what communication meant to him. After many long hours of planning and preparation, the mural took three hours to draw on a bulletin board in Mrs. Clark's room.

Senior DEBATERS adopt intrasquad coaching

Senior debaters accepted the new responsibility of Intrasquad coaching. This system meant seniors taught juniors the skills needed to be competitive debaters, sometimes after school. Sky View competed at the Goldenspike, Wasatch Front, Governor's Cup, Weber State, Region and State Invitationals with sixteen other 4A schools. "Form, strategy and many hours of practice combined to make Sky View's Debate team known on a state level," stated Debate coach Mr. Alan Harris.

SOCIAL SCIENCE students study Watergate, US problems

Explaining serious accidents around the Cache Valley area, Patrolmen Justin Anderson and Gerald Pierson captured the attention of Sociology students in Mr. Jessop's classes with pictures and slides.

By turning off the lights, turning up the heat, and involving students in envelope making for 55 minutes, Mr. Robertson hoped to make his Industrial Revolution History class aware of the working conditions of the early 1900's.

Sociology students observed life of the imprisoned criminal during the annual trip to the state penitentiary. Depicting the problems of America, students plastered the walls with magazine pictures in Mr. Chamber's sociology classes. These pictures stimulated discussions on prejudice and discrimination, crimes and criminals, and "what makes people happy or sad".

A 200 point assignment on Watergate helped students in Mr. Broberg's American Problems class realize the seriousness of the scandal.

FINE ARTS gain students in Ceramics with new kiln

Taking advantage of the new kiln, twice as many students placed completed projects inside the larger kiln to be fired. With the addition of a procelain vase, the Fine Arts Department brought its art collection closer to completion. Once completed it will be placed in the student center for all students to see.

In the fall concert, the orchestra featured electric guitars for the first time in the song, "Shaft". All orchestra students spent time before and after school practicing for the final production of the musical "Where's Charley?".

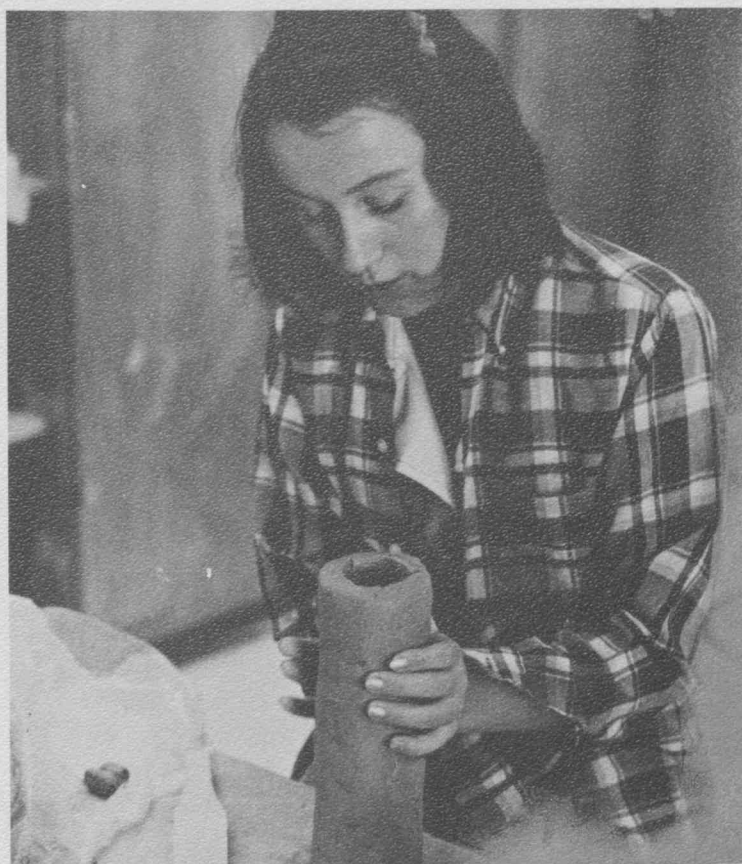

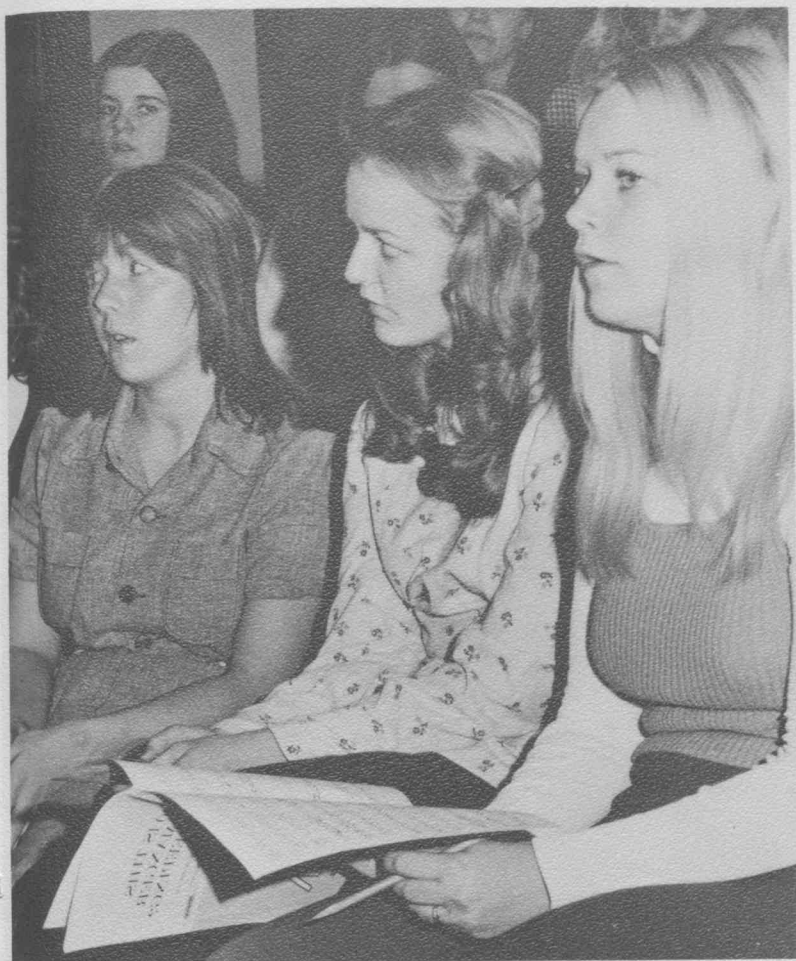

Playing in the main hall before school, the Pep Band hoped to boost the spirit of studentbody for away games.

Performing with the orchestra at Christmas, the choir sang many songs for the Yuletide season. After their annual Salt Lake Christmas trip, "away" appearances were limited because of the energy crisis.

School board buys house for S.V. HOME EC. classes

With an increasing demand for Child Care Centers in the US, Mrs. Swapp found Sky View's Child Care program needed expanding. Because of crowded classroom conditions, the school board consented to buy the house built by Sky View's Building Tech. class for a laboratory in child development training. The availability of restrooms and water along with additional space made the house ideal for working with children.

Teachers furnished the house with toys for the children, including a slide, climbing bars and a rocking boat. Mirrors enabled children to observe themselves and others as they played.

VOCATIONAL AG tours top dairies; visits soil plant

Special guides explained the management and facilities necessary for dairy farming as Ag. students toured Cache dairies. Later in class they learned to test milk for butterfat and how to grade and cut meat.

Other agricultural groups visited USU's Plant and Soil Science Department to learn more about growing soy beans and field corn. They also observed the effects of poisonous plants on animals.

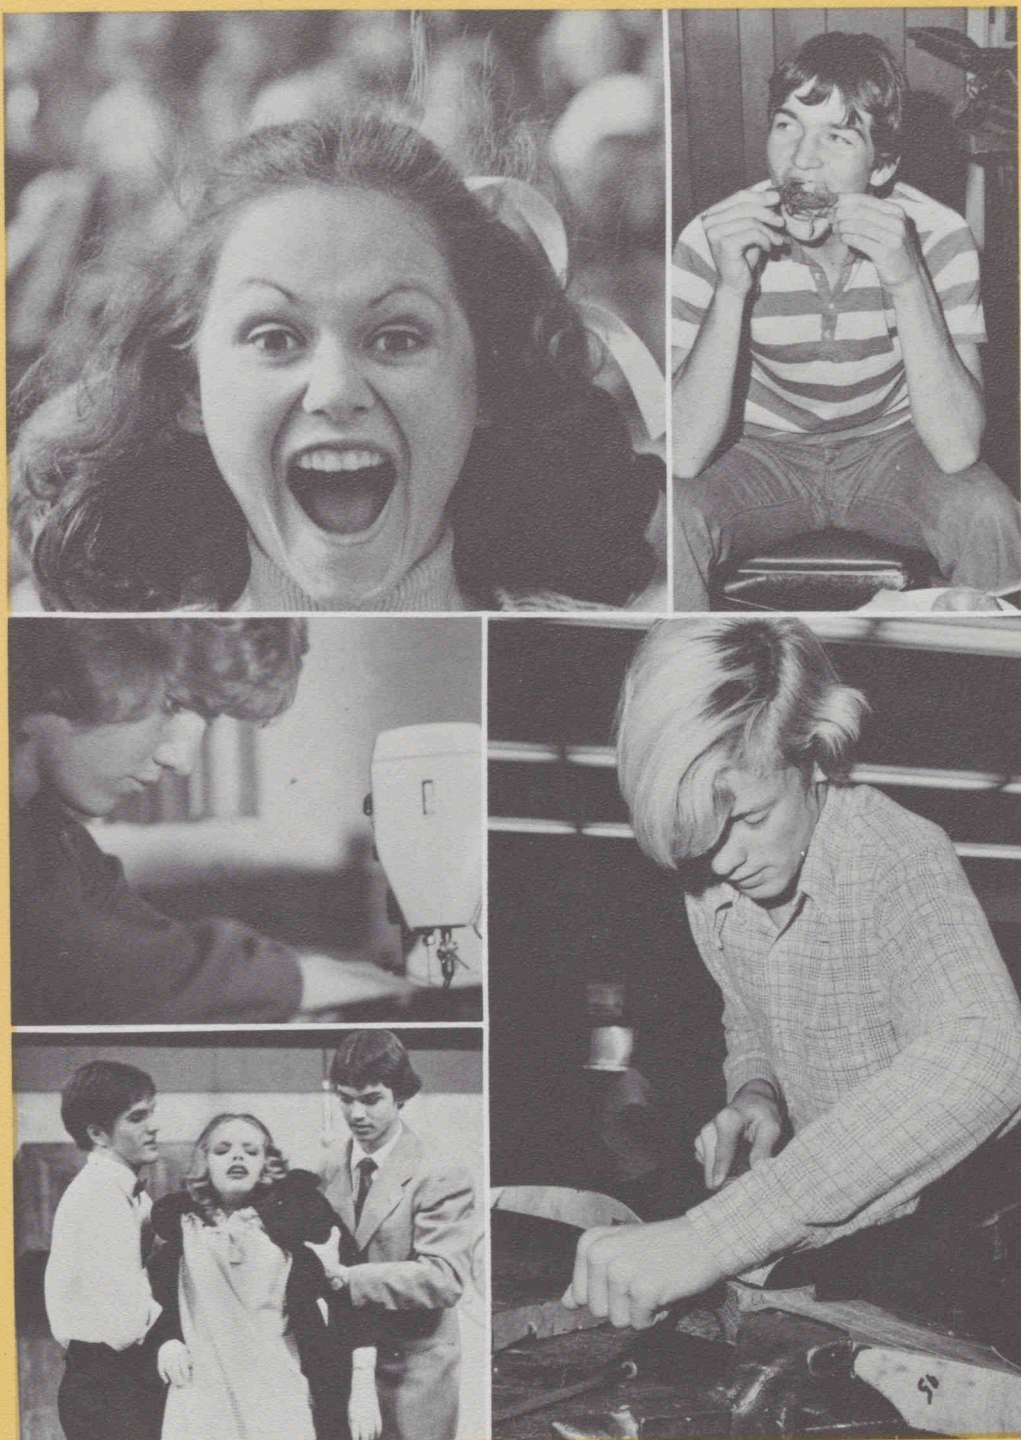

The Department of Health Education and Welfare sent an FHA Supervisor to talk to the students about obtaining farm loans for purchasing livestock and tools and for operating expenses. One student used the information to obtain a $10,000 loan and purchased twenty-two dairy animals.

Industrial Arts photography section bought a new airbrush and a variety of colored inks to introduce new techniques. Electronics classes worked to improve the circuit used in TV's radios and computers.

STUDENTBODY

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL buys Student Center furniture

Using funds from the Christmas and PTA movies, Executive Council purchased additional furniture to improve the Student Center. A special Student Senate committee enforced new laws and fines. Anyone caught littering or damaging the Student Center paid for damages incurred. In addition, they cleaned the Center one night or paid a $1 fine.

Executive Council helped organize a new "Spirit Club" to support "The Spirit of '74". The new club involved more students than any pep club before.

Student Senate set up several committees to handle various school activities and problems. A dress code committee enforced the new dress code which the Ex. Council had helped to establish.

STUDENT SENATE adopts Robert's Rules of Order

Home rooms elected better Student Senators when prospective candidates gave speeches. Student Senators signed up for special committees that handled dress code violations, renaming of Sky View streets, and student center improvements. A committee drew up constitutional amendments as student center laws, dance royalty selection and other issues for studentbody approval. Senators helped plan ping-pong tournaments, "XXX Week" activities, and relayed the information to each class.

Working as a liaison between chairman Brent Israelsen and the coordinating council, Vice-chairman Vince Saunders encouraged involvement in Homecoming and class activities. Council members discussed assemblies, dances, club activities and class functions.

Peppy slogans, hall signs boost SENIOR class spirit

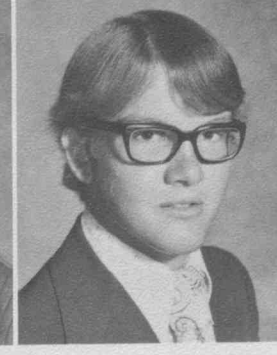

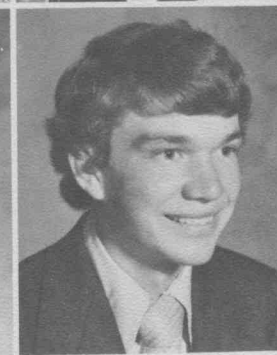

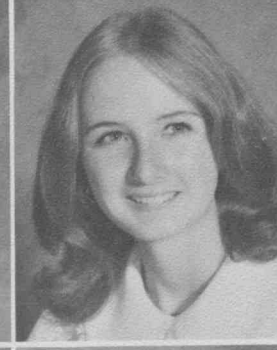

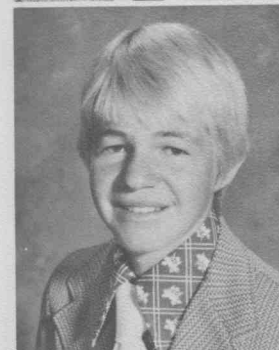

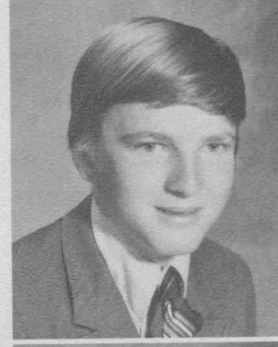

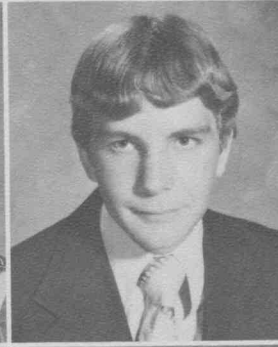

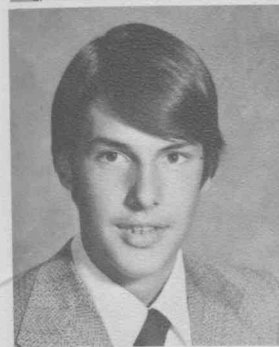

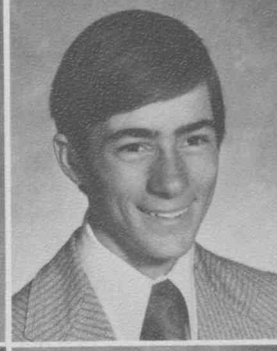

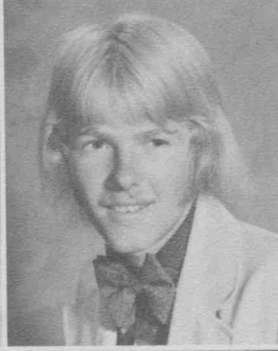

Senior officers began activities to boost class spirit by plastering the hall with signs the first week of school. One read: "Seniors of '74 have spirit and then some more". Continued efforts paid off the week of Homecoming as the senior float took first place in class competition and second place in the whole school.

With the theme "Our Day Will Come", the senior prom committee came up with original ideas. Eliminating the traditional false ceiling, decorations went all the way to the balcony where dancers nibbled refreshments.

Preparation for senior week began early as officers planned '40's or '50's and hillbilly dress-up days. Hours of work and planning didn't go without some reward. As secretary Linda Bullen put it, "We met the students in the class and learned to accept and appreciate them for what they were".

JUNIORS plan prom and assembly, hold "Jr. Week"

Junior class elected Craig Buttars, Bryan Johnson and Mary Cardon to plan a Junior Prom and school assembly. For the first time officers held a "Junior Week" full of fun for Juniors. Advisors included Mr. Summers, Mrs. Tippetts, Mr. Mullen and Mr. Robinson.

Early to rise, Craig Buttars began most school days at 6:00 a.m. working on the farm. He enjoyed choir and skiing.

Bryan Johnson kept busy with football, basketball, skiing, swimming, Key Club, and the Ski Club. His favorite classes included choir and athletics.

Sports enthusiast Mary Cardon also enjoyed water and snow skiing. Her school activities included debate, pep band, FHA and orchestra. In her spare time she practiced the E-flat Alto Horn and the French Horn.

"Starry Starry Night" comprised the theme for the Sophomore Christmas Dance. Mr. Merkeley, Mr. Blotter, Mr. Griffin, and Miss Milligan advised Sophomore class officers in planning the Homecoming float, Christmas Dance, assembly, and a spring party.

Reluctant tricycle race contestant, Brad Oldroyd, came in last at the Initiation Assembly competition. As punishment he wore racing goggles the rest of the day.

Brad enjoyed athletics and hunting. Proudly he proclaimed, "I got a deer."

Another athletics fan, Jim Chambers, skied and hunted for more sports. Algebra presented some troubling challenges.

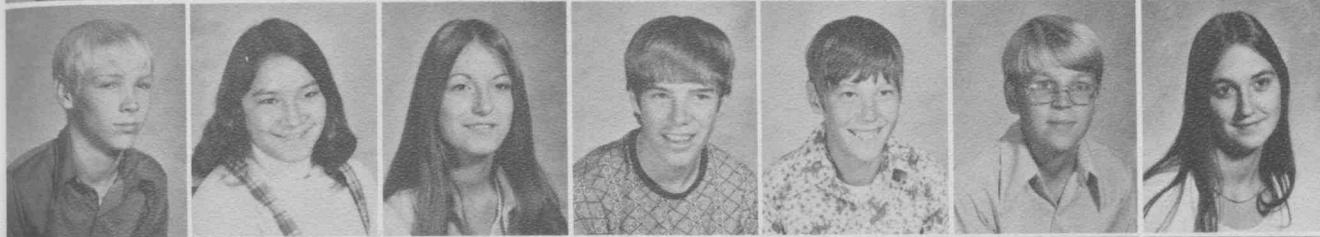

Lorita Hansen enjoyed competitive sports, especially swimming. A member of FHA and the Spirit Club, she loved meeting new people whenever possible.

Ross Hansen
May 14, 1956 - Aug. 23, 1973

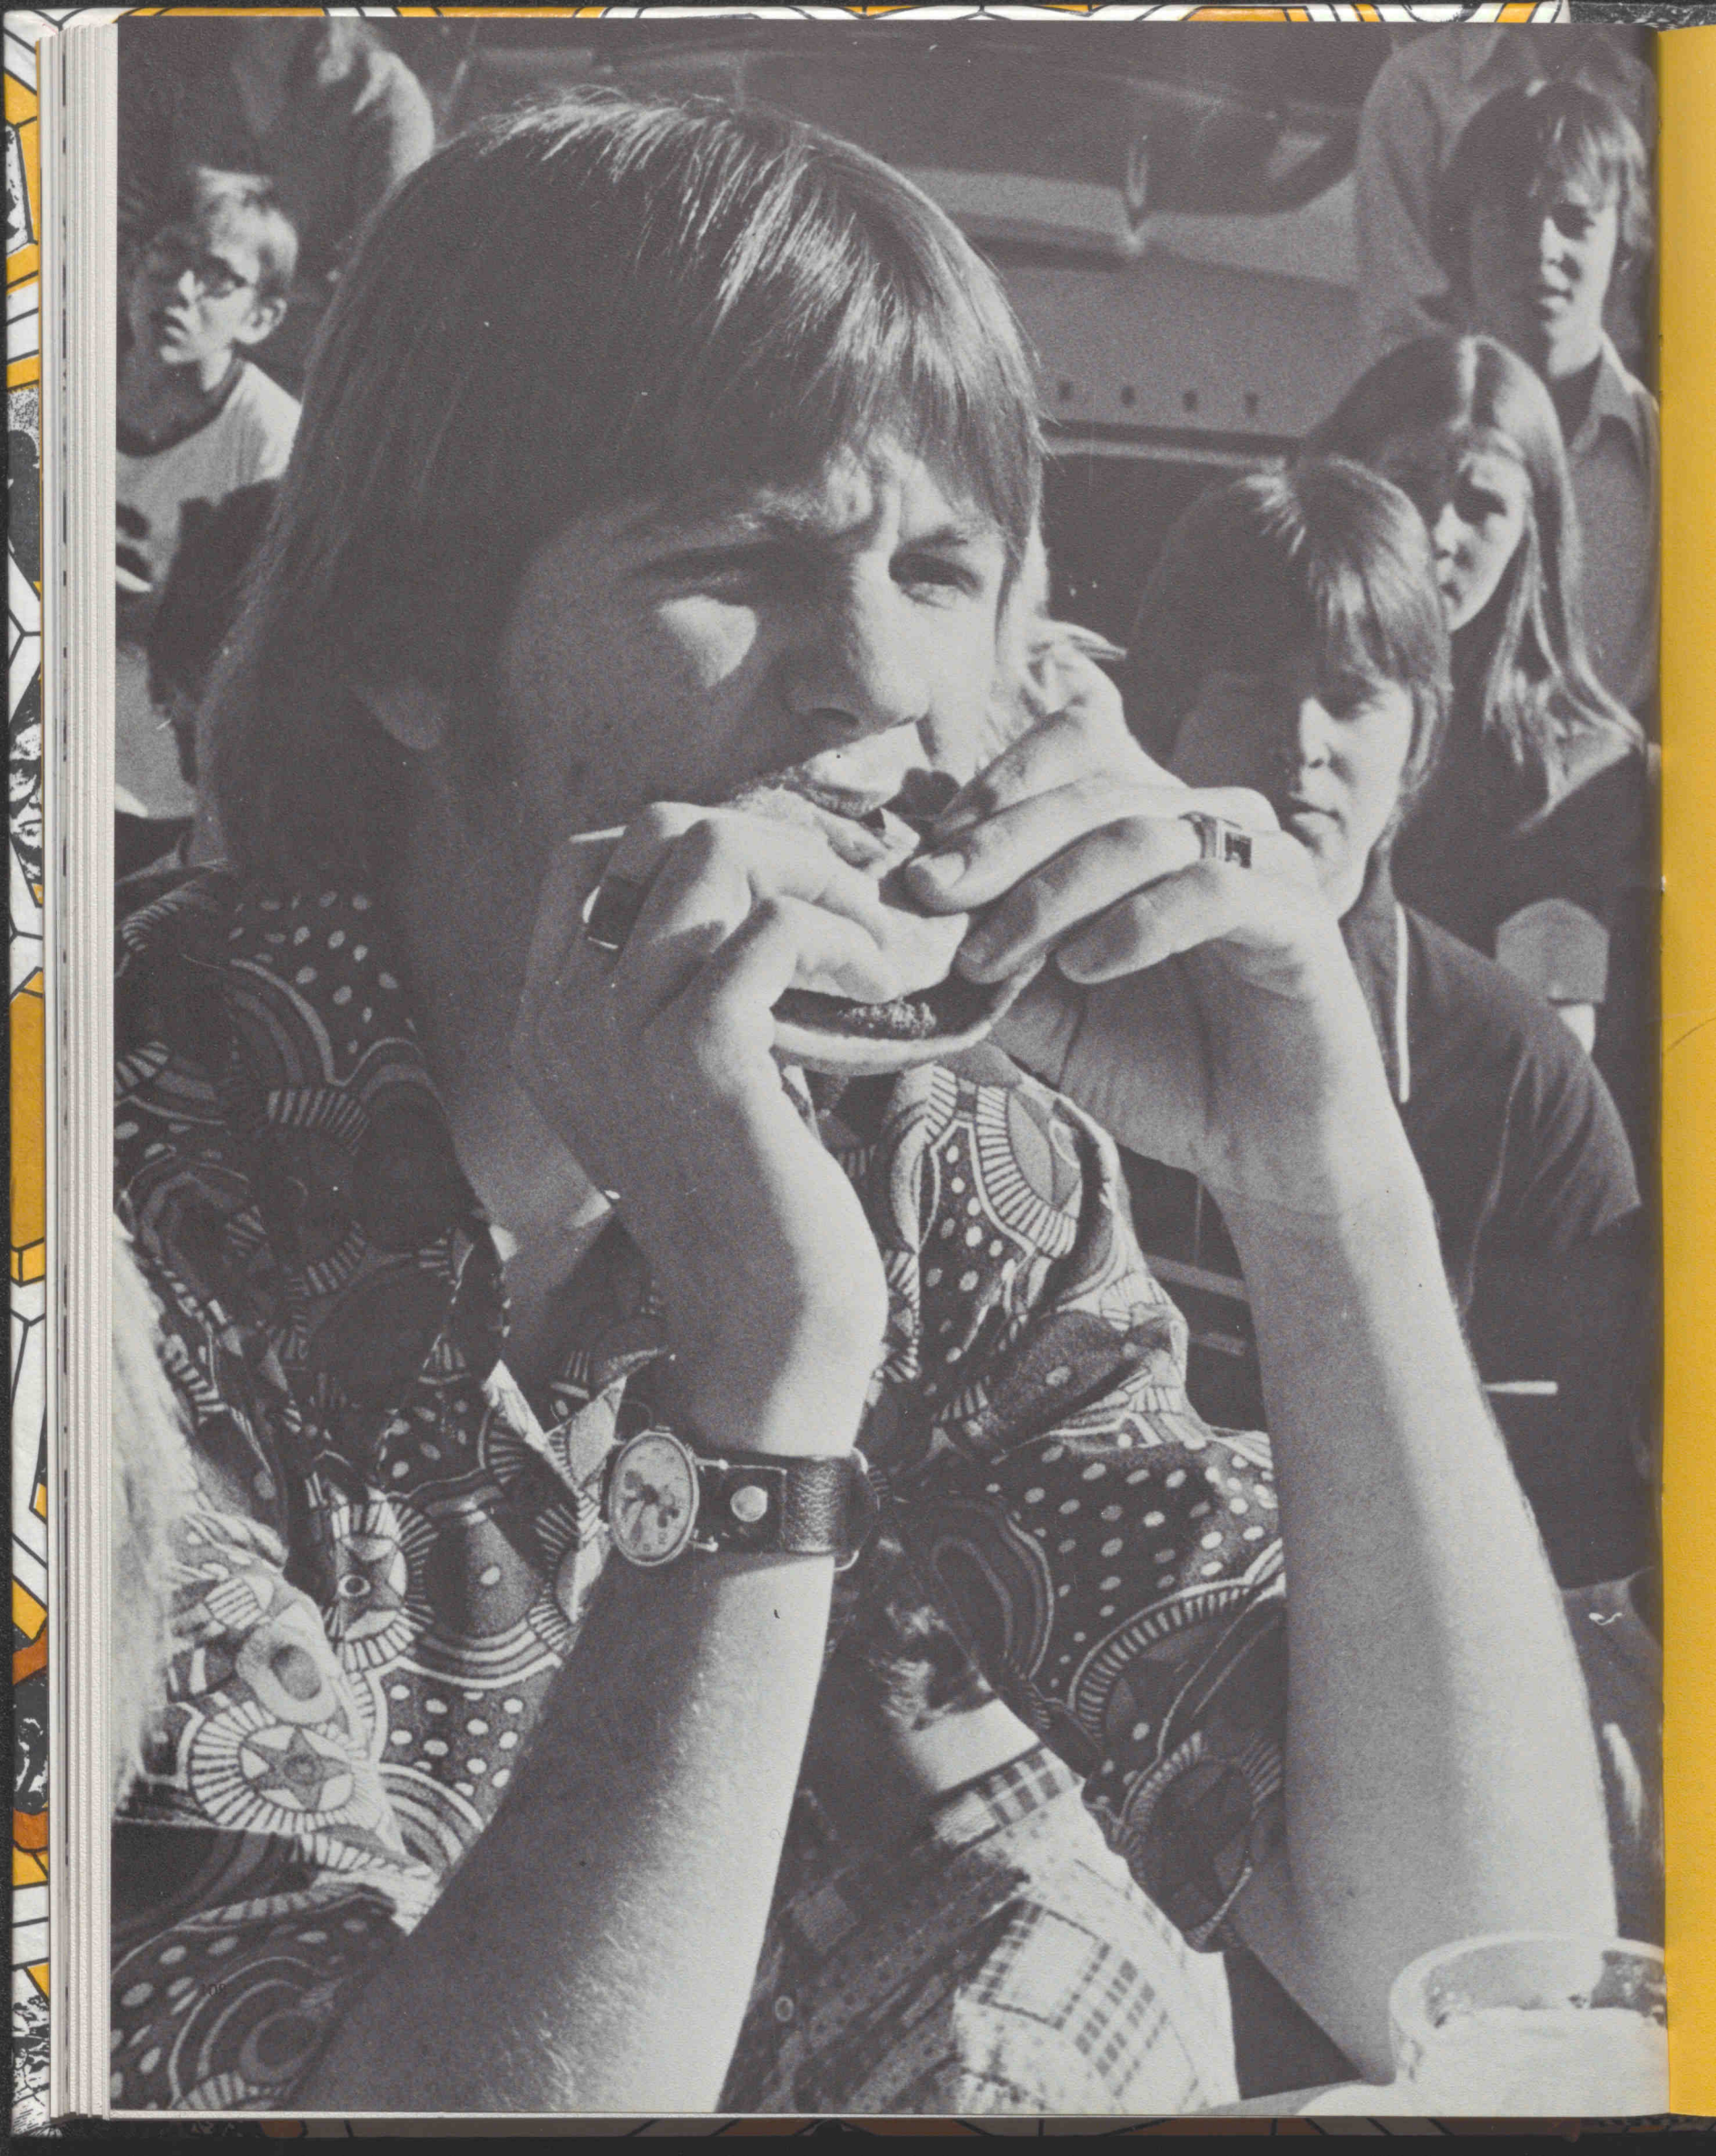

To ponder the death of a friend
Someone who brought
A light of light on gloomy days
That beam now dimmed to blaze again in another world to shine in the presence of other souls.

"So shall it be at last in that great morning, when the soul waketh
and life's shadows flee."

— Harriet Beecher Stowe

"The creator would never have made such lovely days, and have given us the deep hearts to enjoy them,
unless we were meant to be immortal."

— Nathaniel Hawthorne

ACTIVITIES

HOMEcoming "Spirit" communes with past SV talent

"Spirit of '74" brought back past talents for the Homecoming assembly. Performers: Dancer, Teresa Roylance; Singers, Kathy Christensen, Kris Lower, Marilyn Lundberg and Karen Manning and the "Mafia" of '73 emphasized the theme "Ten Years After". Students sang the school hymn after the presentation of the ten year anniversary cake.

Students spent endless hours building floats, forming processions, painting store windows and hanging a sign "Sky View Homecoming" across Main in preparation for the parade. Forty-two entries paraded through Smithfield and involved more students than ever before.

Annual pep rally precedes HOMECOMING 50-12 win

Annual night pep rally immediately following the parade featured fireworks, a skit to build spirit, an alumnus and the traditional burning of the Warrior dummy.

Football players smashed through the Weber Warriors' line for a 50-12 victory.

Cheer and Songleaders honored all past cheerleaders at a tea. Other highlights included the Vistauns of '73 presenting the Vistauns of '74 with a decorated cake. Parade chairmen sold Homecoming buttons to advertise the week's activities.

Homecoming dance, featuring Sounds Unlimited, climaxed the celebration.

"HELLO DANCE" held first school week, well attended

For the first time Exec. Council invited radio disc jockeys to play music for the "Hello Dance". KRSP broadcasters Mark Van Wagner and Paul St. John kept things going with contests and prizes. Pam Hooker won a KRSP T-shirt by kissing Paul St. John.

Sophomores decorated the cafeteria with stars galore to emphasize the "Starry Starry Night" Christmas dance theme. A large spherical mirror sparkled twinkling lights throughout the room as couples danced to sounds of "Wedgewood" band. Sophomores served star-shaped cookies for refreshments, and each couple labeled and hung a star ornament on Christmas tree.

SENIORS construct PROM decorations, one-of-a-kind

Applying the theme "Our Day Will Come", Senior Prom chairmen Ann Lewis and Laura Kearl began work on decorations early. Meeting at Anderson Lumber, often three to four times a week, students spent hours constructing wood fences and snowmen for floor decorations.

For the first time in Sky View's history, students decorated the balcony and served refreshments on tables with center pieces that duplicated the floor decorations. Chairs lined the balcony rail providing relaxation and a good view of the dance floor.

"It's the best backdrop we've ever had for prom pictures", Ariel Benson stated as he photographed couples in a red sleigh with a snowy forest background.

JUNIOR PROM decorations capture "Time in a Bottle"

Formals and tuxes filled the boys' gym for the March 23 Junior Prom. Starlight shown beyond the midnight blue ceiling with pink draping on the walls. Spring flowers highlighted water fountains, white lace chairs, and pink angel-haired trees.

"Spectrum" band provided the dance music, but Ryan Tew sang the theme song, "Time in a Bottle". Five children performed a Mary Poppins' ballet for the floor show, with purple dresses, white pinafores and bows in their hair. Juniors served various cakes with pink punch for refreshments. Couples received programs with favors announcing royalty of the prom.

"Gunshot" marriages held 'Round the Old Oak Tree'

Couples opened the prison doors to freedom upon entering the FFA-FHA Girls' Choice dance. Painted on the cafeteria window, a large yellow bus waited to take ex-convicts past the "old oak tree" where yellow ribbons symbolized a welcome. The faculty lunch room provided an ideal "oak room" for cookies and punch.

Mr. Summers filled the bill as Marryin' Sam, giving newlyweds a marriage license and yellow ribbon. Mr. Hunsaker encouraged ceremonies by kidnapping couples engaged in questionable activities and sending them to the marriage altar.

School PLAY performances, different cast each night

For the first time in Sky View's history, play directors arranged casts to rotate around the leading lady. Boys performed Wednesday and Friday or Thursday and Saturday nights and played opposite a different girl each time. Melinda Hurren performed only one night after she sprained her ankle cheerleading.

The play depicted a summer in the life of the professional actress, Cornelia Skinner, when she spent a summer abroad with her best friend, Emily Kimbrough. Students portraying the actress spent hours memorizing and practicing intricate movements to illustrate Cornelia's attempt at acting in Paris.

Adjusting lights kept the crew busy. One scene involved coordinating a flickering light with movements on stage.

"OUR HEARTS WERE YOUNG AND GAY" story of Cornelia Skinner, Emily Kimbrough's summer in Paris

Roommates Cornelia Skinner and Emily Kimbrough sailed for Paris to enjoy a summer abroad. Watching her "native land become a speck in the distance", Emily spotted a man who had fallen overboard and threw a deck chair to his rescue. Horrified at the thought that she had killed a man, Emily agreed to give herself up. Dick Winters, a shipmate, walked in looking for the shoes of his roommate, Leo McEvoy. Emily jumped to the conclusion that it was Leo who had died. Shocked and confused, she found that she had actually helped capture a stowaway.

The morning before they reached land Cornelia woke with the measles. Trying to avoid quarantine, Dick and Leo schemed to get her past medical inspection.

After overcoming such obstacles as bedbugs, an exploding water meter and disappointing acting lessons, Cornelia and Emily headed home ready to face life.

Droopy eyelids identify sleepy MUSICAL cast

Prompters, student directors, pianists, instructors and cast practiced each night two months prior to musical performance. Surprised instructors found cast practicing before school. All participants sacrificed two Saturdays and a holiday for the show.

Chorus members rehearsed 16 nights after school learning six songs and two dances. Eight dancers performed tap and Brazilian dances, while Mrs. Roylance and Miss Riley managed "a trick in itself"—teaching song and tap dance number to the Charlie leads. Two broken feet and two sprained ankles hindered dancing, but casts came off in time.

With over 100 costumes to make or borrow, costumes committee sewed more than ever before. Scenery crew hurried to complete a revolving scenery platform within a two week time limit. A $200 set of china dishes encouraged props crew to change scenes carefully.

Top: "Where's Charlie! How's Charlie!" sing the chorus as they wait for Charlie to come for the graduation picture. Left: "Take your hands out of your pockets, Sir," Brassett commands as he fastens Charlie's skirt. Above: "My darling, get used to the name of my darling, it's here to stay." Charlie plays Aunt, but now, "WHERE'S CHARLIE?"

Oxford University dorms in 1892 required Charlie and Jack to have a chaperone present in their apartment before inviting their girlfriends, Amy and Kitty, over for lunch. Jack and Charlie were frantic when Charlie's aunt failed to arrive at Oxford in time to chaperone.

Switching apparel, Charlie doubled as Amy's girlfriend and the chaperoning aunt. Amy and Kitty's guardian, Mr. Spettigue, assumed Charlie to be the rich aunt, and attempted to marry her for her money.

Finally the real Donna Lucia arrived. Noticing Charlie's pretense, she changed her name to Beverly Smythe. Jack's father, Sir Francis, recognized Lucia as an old girlfriend, but questioned her name.

By accident, Jack stepped on Aunt Lucia's dress and revealed Charlie. Amy and Charlie, Kitty and Jack, Aunt Donna Lucia and Sir Francis Chesney joined as couples.

Outside talent highlights many school ASSEMBLIES

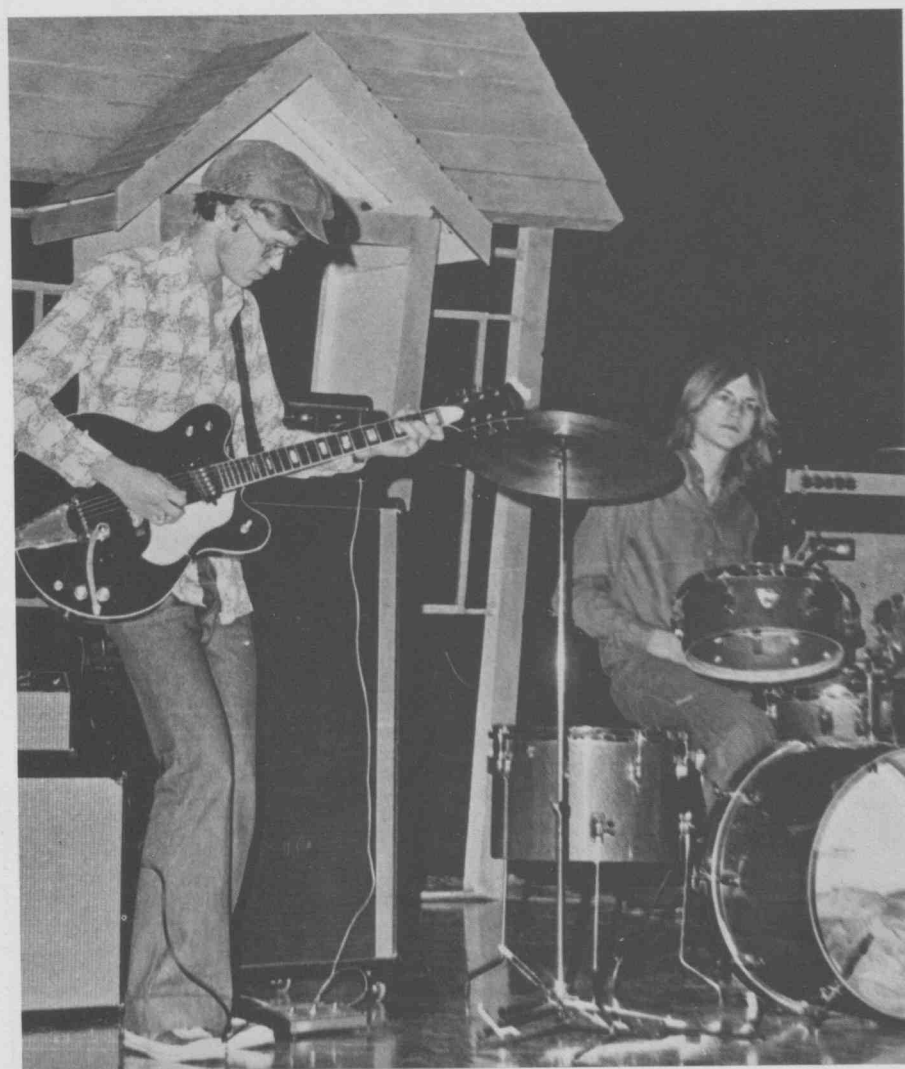

"Time for Aunt Maudie's potty training," Myrna Miller exclaimed as she presented the humorous reading, "Aunt Maudie's A,B,Z Book," during Valentine Assembly. "US" performed a selection of "Chicago's" hits and an original song, "I've Got Tears in My Beer," with lyrics by Cleve Johnson and music by Dave Poulsen.

Several assemblies brought in outside talent. Alumni sang and danced for the Homecoming assembly. National school assemblies presented English folk singers and a juggler. A cartoonist emphasized rules for traffic safety.

"Spirit Club" urges class spirit in PEP ASSEMBLIES

Sophomores shocked the studentbody as they won the first "spirit" competition. Spirit Club posted the win on a "spirit" thermometer as envious Juniors and Seniors vowed to yell louder next time.

"class . . . Class . . . CLASS SHUT-UP!" screamed the teacher in the Senior Spirit Club skit. Juniors mimicked Coach Christiansen's hat, magazine and warm-up exercises in Athletics. Sophomores portrayed student disorders in Mrs. Clark's English class.

Key Clubbers featured King Sky View as champion over King Royal and his subjects. Witches led cheers and danced for the studentbody in a freaky Halloween pep assembly.

Annual Grizzly roast brought cheers and whistles from Bobcat fans at the Logan-SV pep assembly. "Fee, Fi, Fo, Fum; I smell the blood of a city bum!" yelled the cheerleaders. Future Farmers caught the spirit in Old MacDonald's song when they chorused, "Sky View had a very fine team, F-I-G-H-T!"

"Our Hearts Were Young and Gay"

"Ryan Tew and Joyce Richmond are inquifed in this years play. "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay."
A little too young and gay -- maybe?

As everyone associated with Sky View knows, the studentbody is comprised of several hundred talented individuals. Among these talented people are the actors and actresses performing in this year's school play.

The play, Our Hears Were Young and Gay, is a comedy from the 1920's. Performance nights are November 14, 15, 16, and 17, at 8:00. The cast will perform for 15 minutes, singing songs of the 1920's, before the play begins.

This year's cast includes lead players, Mary Ann Mickelson, and Joyce Richman as Cornelia Skinner; Vanette Durtschi, and Christy Seamons as Cornelia's best friend, Emily Kimbrough; Scott Theurer, and Ryan Tew as Leo; and Byron Bair, and David Murray as Dick.

Other cast members are Debbie Nielsen, and Connie Mickelsen as Mrs. Skinner; Quinn Demler, and Hal Mauchley as Cornelia's actor-father, Otis Skinner; Jay Lower as the steward; Gary Olsen as the ship's purser; Myrna Miller, ship's stewardess; and Todd McKenna as Admiral.

Linda Bullen, and Melinda Hurren, along with Becky Barton, and Vicki Schuman play the roles of Harriet and Winifred, two English girls on board the ship. Annette Suisse is the French Inspector; Lori Yeates, and Lisa Bailey are Therese; Becky Reid, and Debbie Thomas play the part of Madame Elise, Therese' mother; Dean Mesurvey is Monsieur De La Crois, and Kay Andersen plays the part of the French window cleaner.

The cast members have worked to make this play one of Sky View's most successful. Come and see for yourself 27 of Sky View's talented students.

"I can't just get up there and act all by myself". But she'll have the help of many others in making Sky View production "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay."

"Behind the Scenes"

This year the classes of our drama department combine to create the school play. This production incorporates many of the students of Sky View, not only the cast, but also many behind the scenes.

This year's play, "Our Hears Were Young and Gay", has been formed through the efforts of more than 70 students, under the direction of Mrs. Carlson, Mr. Jensen, and Miss Riley with the help and cooperation of the administration. They have been working to make this year's school play one of Sky View's best.

Many hours of determined work have gone into building scenery, planning costume changes, make-up and props arrangement. The people who work to create the atmosphere for the cast are often overlooked, and fail to receive due credit.

There are several crews involved in and behind the scenes in every school play. This year's stage crew is advised and directed by Mr. Jensen and Debbie Warnick. Nancey Fonesbeck is props manager; make-up crew chairman is Bonnie Meyer; publicity crew heads are Wendy Andersen and Kathy Grimshaw, and the light and sounds crew, perhaps the most technical and precise of all, is headed by Alan Dahle. Mrs. Carlson supervises the entire production with assistance from student directors Bobbie Alvey, Teresa Lindley and Becky Kindred. Three junior students, Janalee Burrell, Shawna Israelson and Carla Van Dyke are this year's prompters.

Spirit Club

"Throw"

Girls Choice dances are a very interesting subject. Girls-they are the hunters, and Boy, you are the hunted! If you don't happen to have the desire to go, you'll try all types of devious plots and hiding places, in an attempt to forego any chance of being asked.

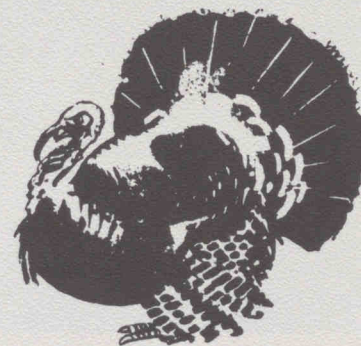

I remember as a peonic sophomore, the travmatic experience of being asked to the "Barnstomp". I was so shocked that all I could croak out was "yes". Before I could do anything else my fate was sealed; and I was destined to a night of carefree enjoyment! It wasn't half as bad as I had thought it would be, and I found myself looking forward to the next opportunity of going to a dance. Speaking of dances, the Spirit Club put on a tremendous extravaganza November 3. Any of you people that didn't attend missed a good chance to "Throw" your frustrations away. There were no casualties from the toilet paper bombardment, and all in all, it was well planned and executed.

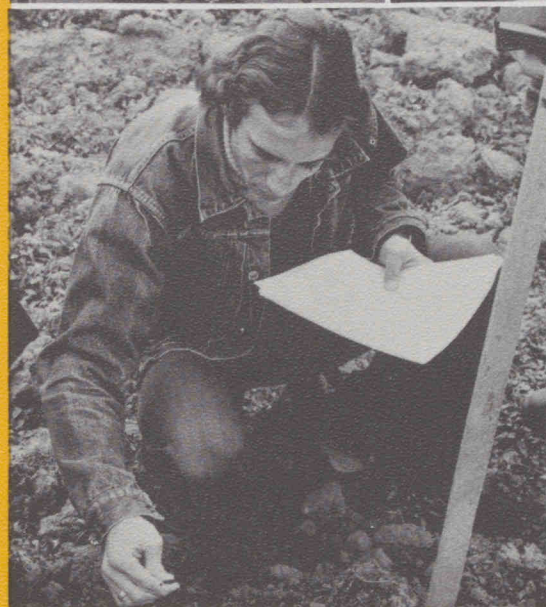

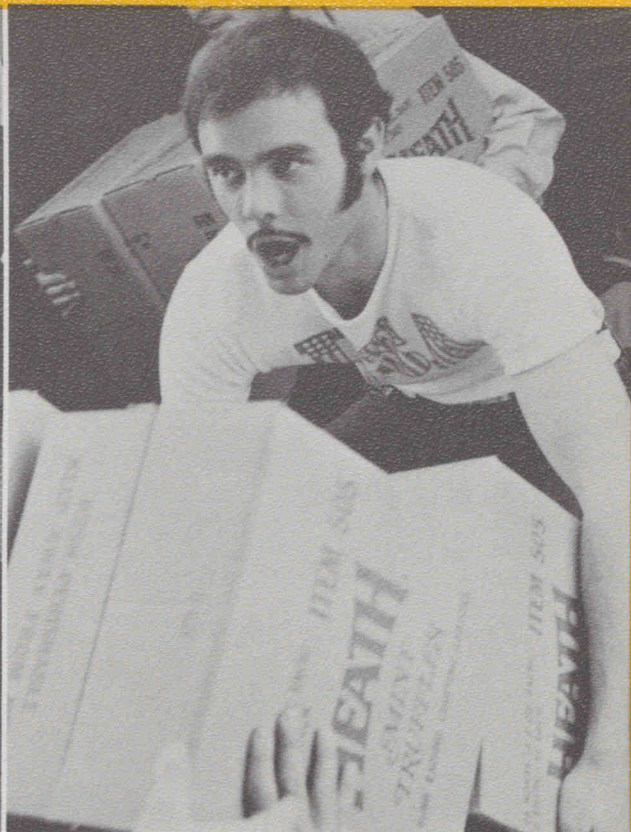

"The dance was rollin as Brent Isrealson and Ronnalee Jones throw away frustrations and help wipe out Girls Choice dance."

"Becky Kindred, Teresa Lindley, and Bobby Alvey enjoy their busy job as student directors of this years production."

ORGANIZATIONS

Student designs AURORA cover on yearbook's theme

Using a new cover designed by Clair Rasmussen, Aurora staff continued the theme, "Look Beyond," throughout the yearbook. Only after many discussions did staff members agree on changes in the order of sections, style of division pages, and style of type in the book. New copy and dummy sheets aided the production.

For several weeks, some yearbook staff members stayed after school each night until 5:00 p.m. or later. Hindered by broken typewriters, late pictures, and photographer-editor conflicts, tensions rose during each of the six deadlines. A new filing system helped editors and photographers find lost negatives. Deadlines were completed and sent to Community Press.

A week at the BYU Publications Workshop enthused Senior yearbook staff members with new ideas. Aurora editors and photographers contributed to the first place "glue-pot" yearbook and the Encounter '73 BYU Publications made at the workshop.

CATONIAN staff studies at journalism workshops

Two weeks before school began, the newspaper staff worked on a paper for the first day of school. Chief editor, Leslie Neilsen, profited from BYU's two week summer workshop. Other staff members attended a journalism workshop at USU.

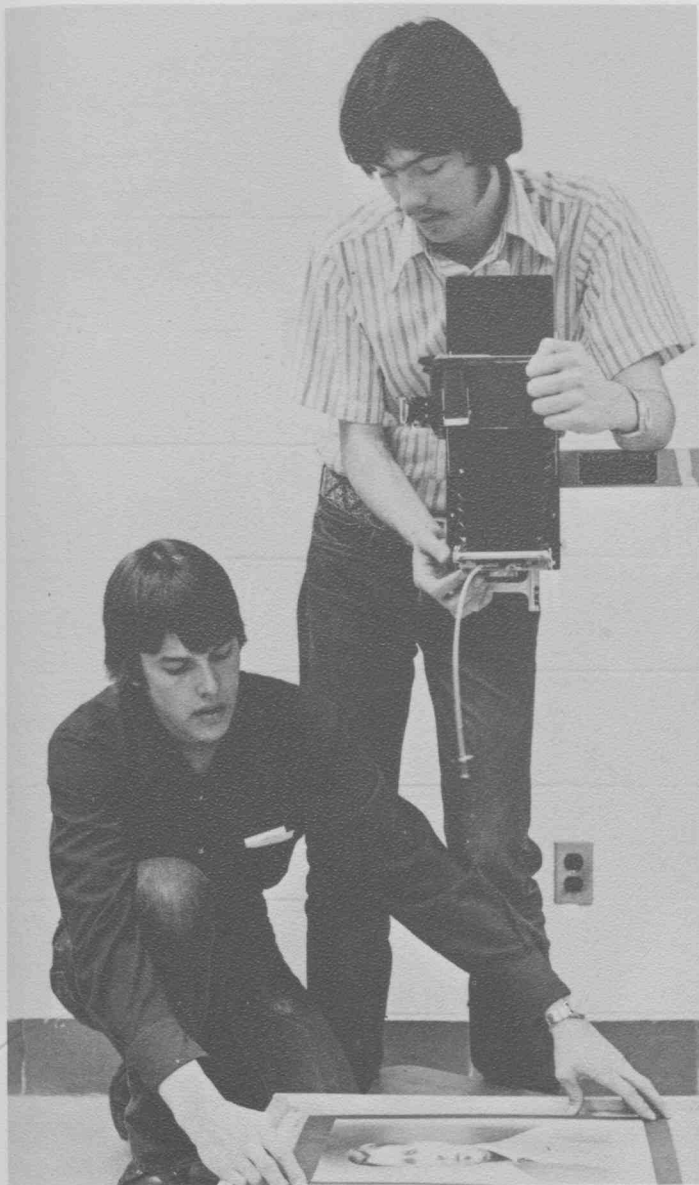

Catonian added two additional staff members to improve business and advertising. They also trained more Juniors for future newspaper work.

All Catonian workers took turns being page editors. The staff observed printing processes at Watkins Printing, and two editors helped printers with paste-ups.

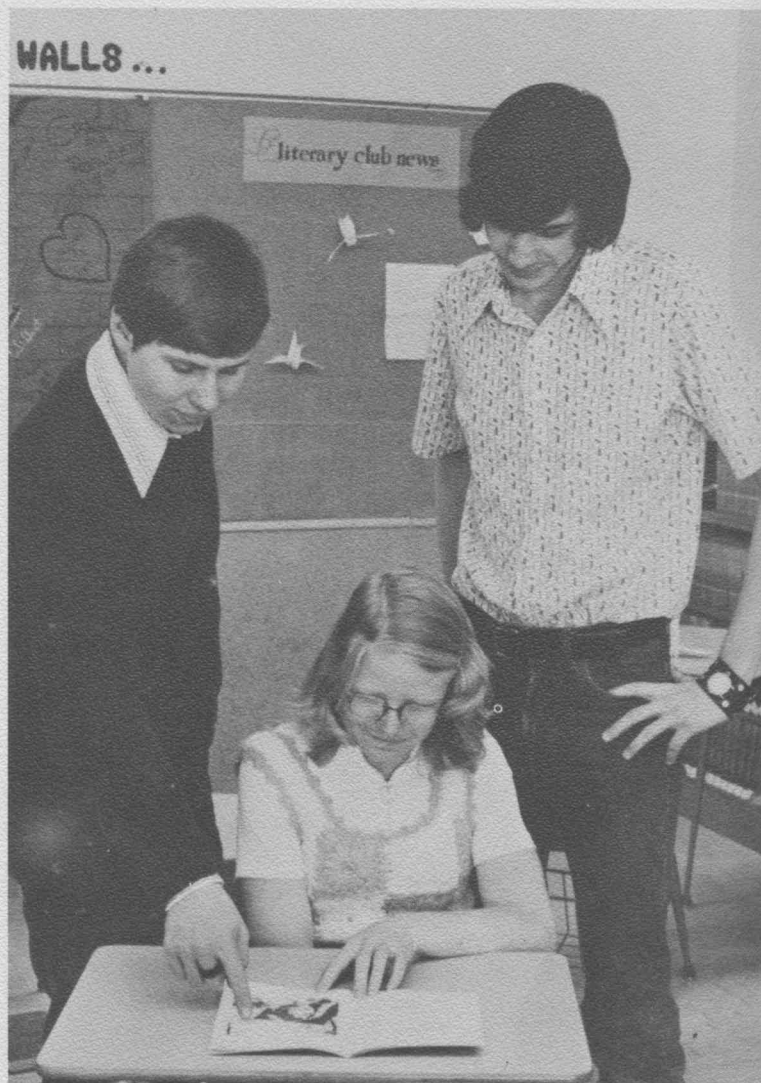

For Homecoming, Catonian sponsored individual Bobcat football players in pictures which appeared in the Catonian and Herald Journal. A special Christmas issue published winning short stories and poems chosen from 30 entries to the Christmas writing contest. Putting out two issues per month kept the staff busy.

LITERARY CLUB considers foreign literature, poetry

Seeking inspiration for writing, literary club members ate Japanese food, practiced Japanese paperfolding and wrote haiku. They also discussed American Indian poetry and sand painting. Students listened to musical selections and then composed lyrics as a group.

Selecting articles submitted by club members and other students, committees chose script, photography and art for compilation in the Catalyst. More active in school activities than in previous years, the literary club decorated a float for the Homecoming parade and won first place.

MARCHING BAND's trip to World's Fair thwarted

Marching Band accepted an invitation to attend Expo '74 World's Fair in Spokane, Washington, only to later cancel plans because of the gas shortage. Other invitations came to perform at Klondike Days in Edmonton, Canada, and to return for the Calgary Stampede.

Vistauns, baton twirlers, flag twirlers, and banner guard marched with the band. The growing organization purchased new uniforms to accommodate the 152 participants.

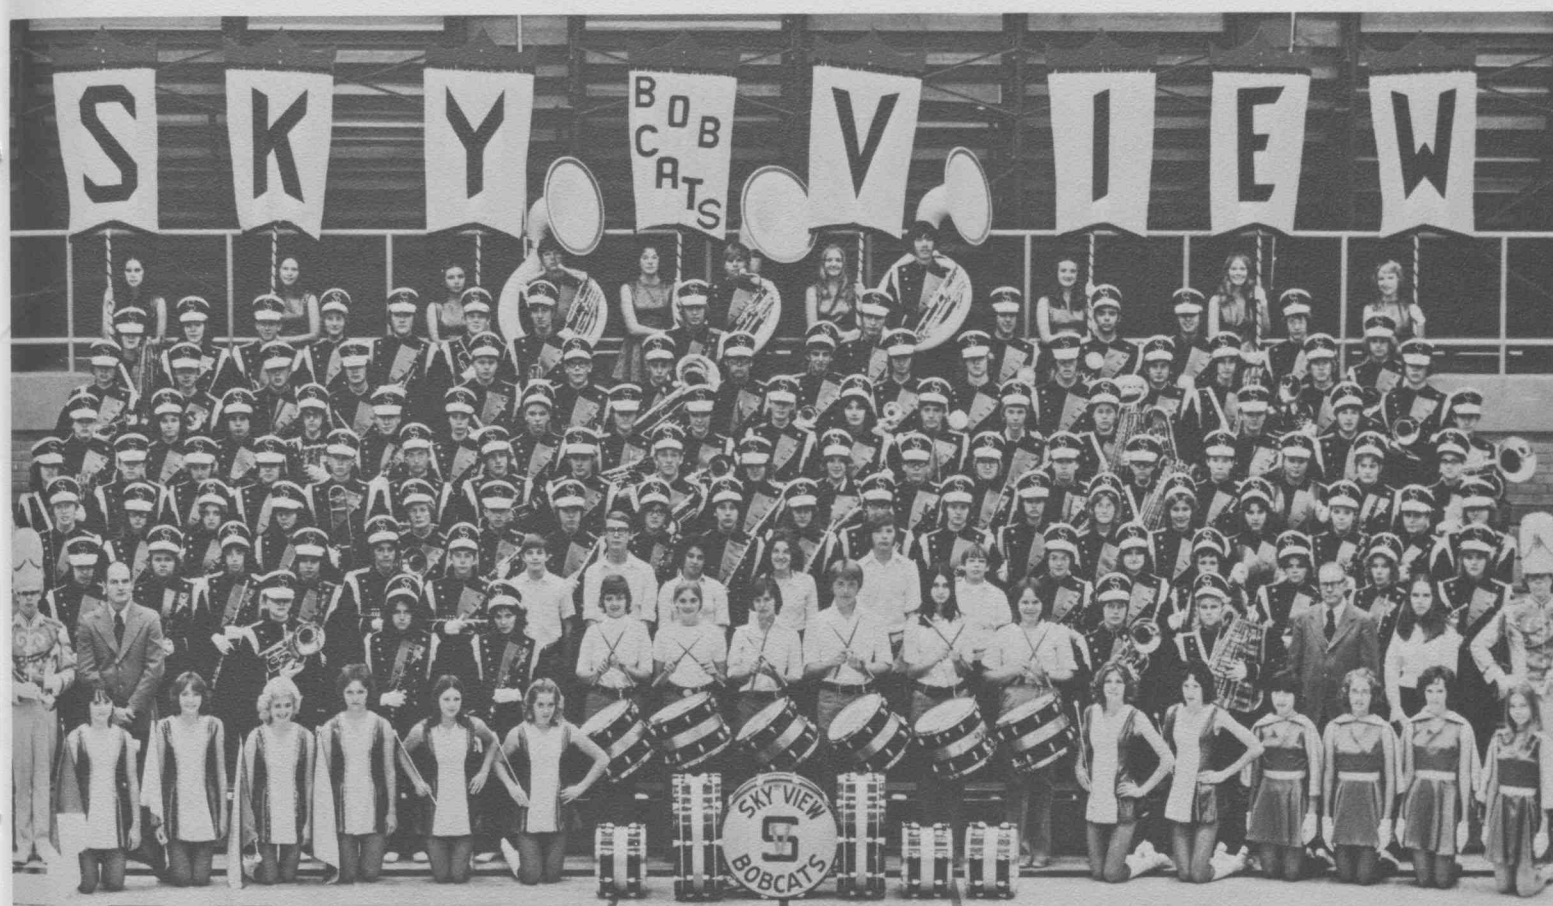

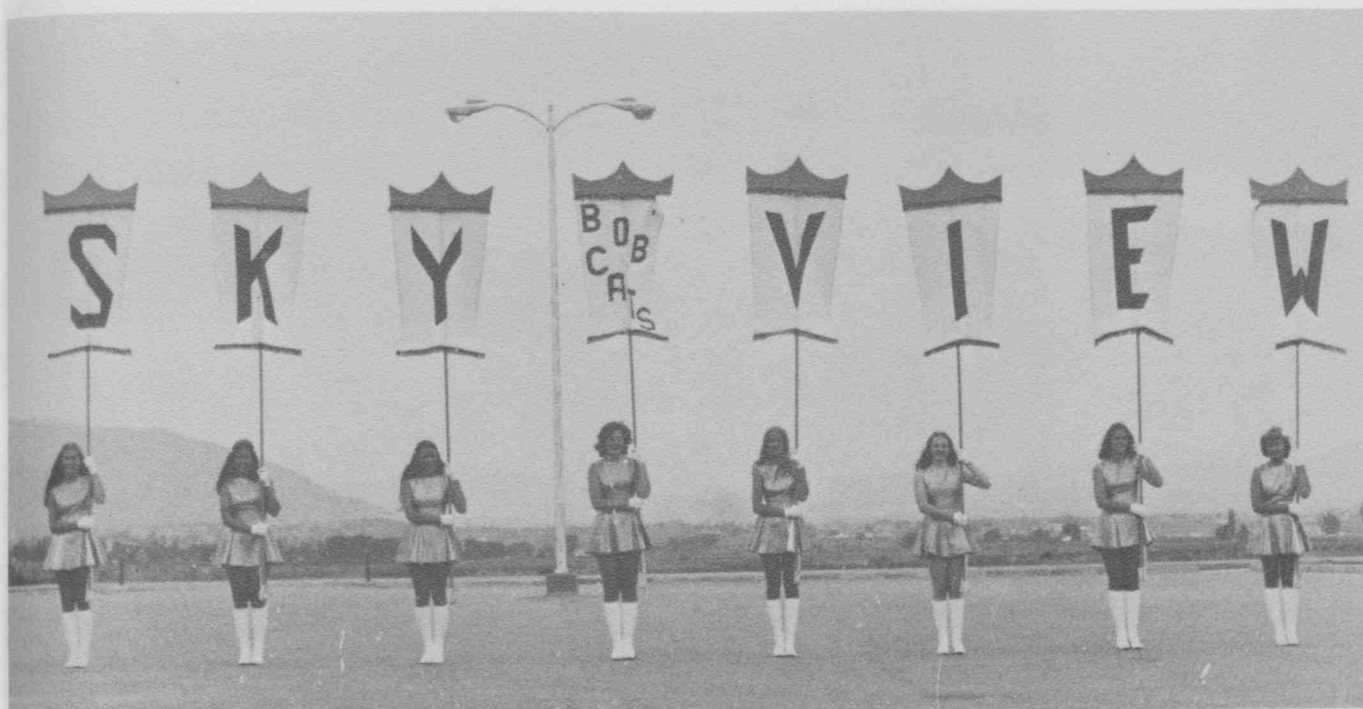

Sacrificing early morning sleep, members of the group attended 6:00 a.m. summer rehearsals three days each week. They represented Sky View in over 10 parades in the area. In spite of many invitations, including one to Hawaii and to Switzerland, lack of funds made long trips impossible.

Students heard the band on the first day of school and at two home game shows.

PERFORMING GIRLS' GLEE presents Church programs

Sixty-six junior girls traveled through Cache Valley to give performances in sacrament meetings two or three times a month. Providing the talks and sacred songs for the entire program, they would plan for a full year of performances to give service to the community.

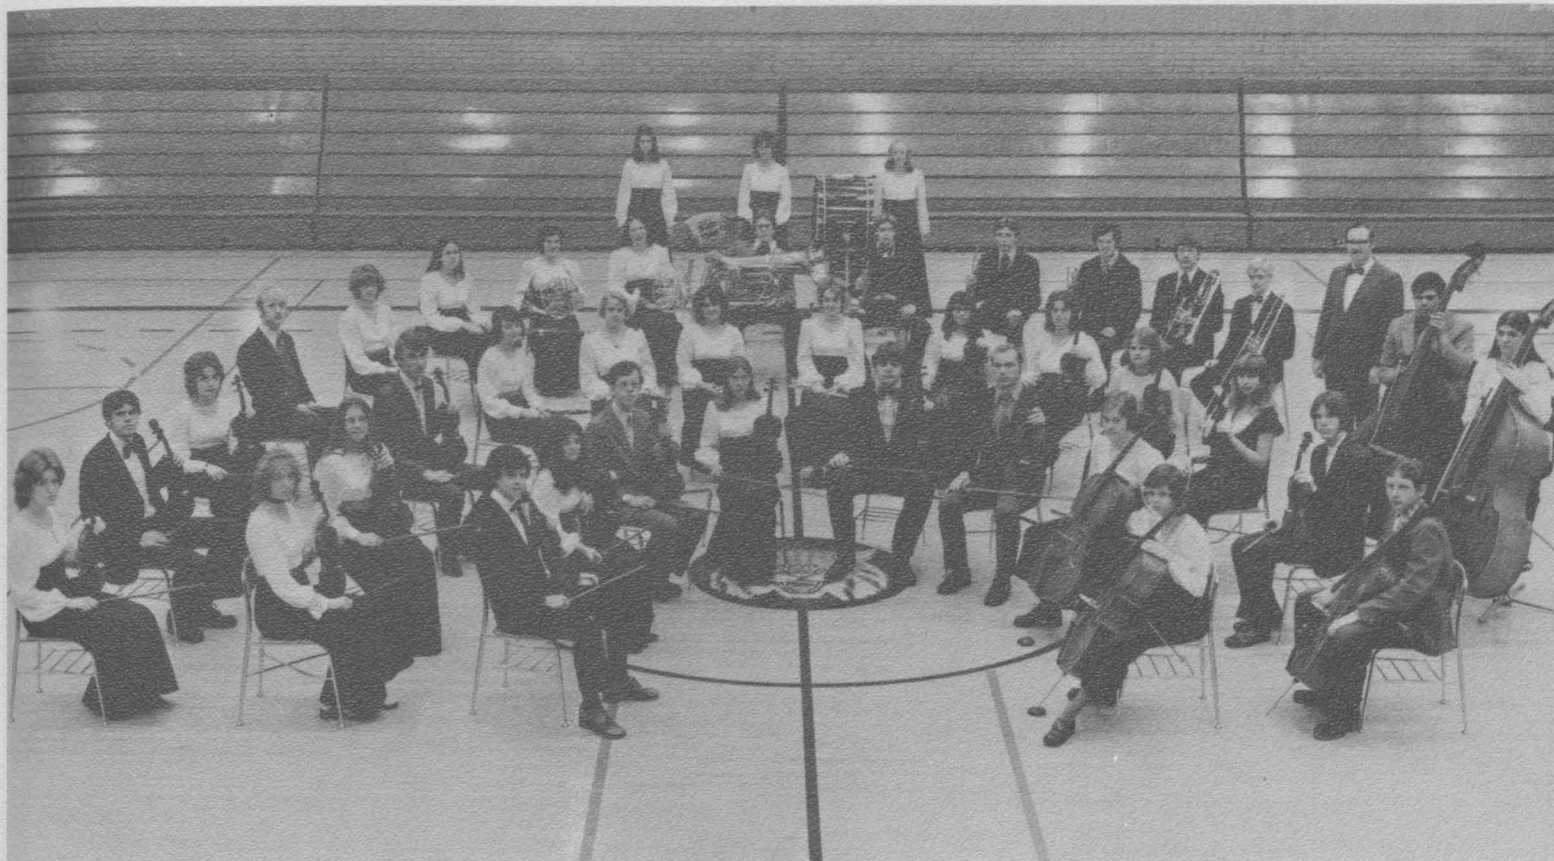

Practicing songs from the musical, "My Darling, My Darling", "Red Rose Cotillion" and "Once In Love with Amy", the Orchestra prepared for the actual production of "Where's Charley?"

Mr. Robert Frost, Orchestra Director, composed four original compositions "Horn Pipe", "Caprice", "Chimes" and "Minuet and Trio" that have been published. The Orchestra played these numbers along with "Schubert's 4th Movement" and "Bizet's Carmen Suite" in the Spring Concert.

MODEL UNITED NATIONS learn legislative process

During the year, members of the Model United Nations prepared for the Utah MUN convention in Salt Lake City by learning proper legislative procedures. They represented the countries of Syria, Botswana and Uganda. Wearing native costumes of the countries contributed to the authenticity of the convention. Paul Watterson from South America, a guest of one of the meetings, spoke on legislation.

Competing with 32 of the largest high schools in Utah, the Young Americans prepared by studying pictures and question sheets on art, history, music, science and literature. Mrs. White helped drill the students by playing simulation games with the members during club meetings. Sky View won over Roy 140 to 105, but lost to Murray, which eliminated them from the contest.

GERMAN CLUB plays games in effort to learn German

All students taking German classes automatically became members in the German Club. To learn the German language in class they played German BINGO and raced to unscramble German words.

Eating a seven-course French meal at the Bluebird helped French Club members better understand the French culture. Members prepared assemblies for the grade schools.

Selling doughnuts, root beer and hot chocolate, the Spanish Club earned $25 for Mexican dance costumes. Members learned Mexican dances and performed at different "Mexican theme" programs. They participated in USU's Spanish Fair and in contests in Salt Lake City. On April 6, an Awards Supper recognized outstanding Spanish students.

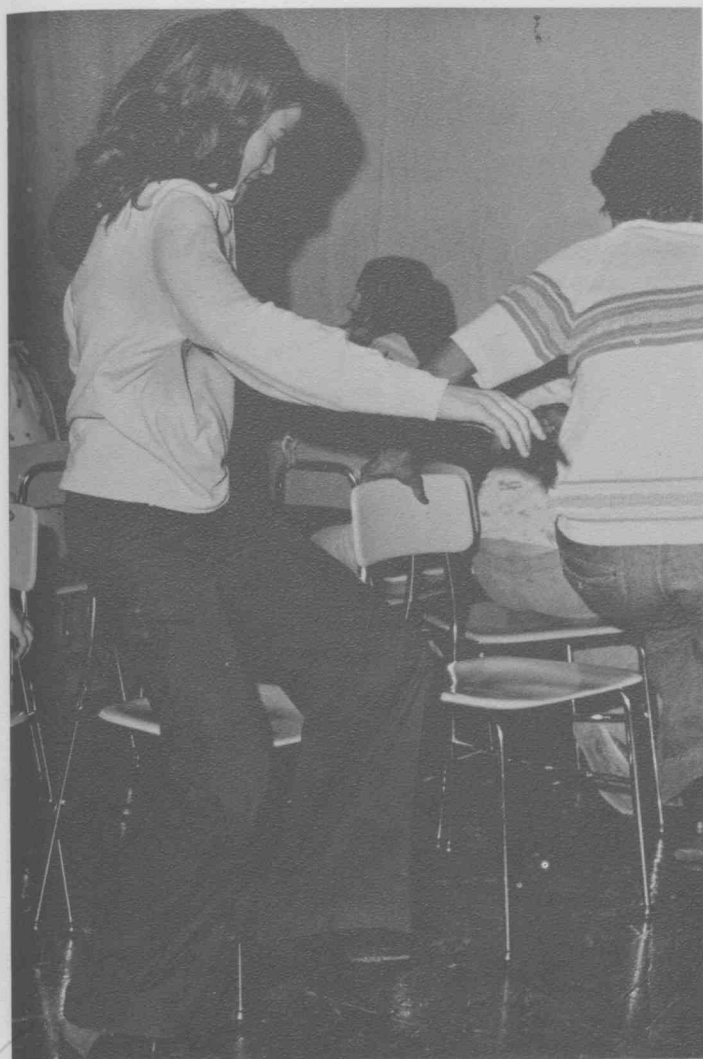

Hoping to preserve the Indian culture, the Nash-Doi Club discussed ways to get better attendance at their meetings. During National Indian Week, Feb. 19-22, a display case held articles made by different tribes.

FHA social guests - Mr. Summers, Sounds of Zion

Old Ephraim's story given by Mr. Summers and singing by members of the Sounds of Zion highlighted the FHA opening social. Guest speaker Mrs. Dance talked to members on personality at the Personality, Punch and Pizza party. The Christmas program consisted of a reading given by Mrs. Carlsen and an act by the musical group "US" which played songs originally performed by the group "Chicago".

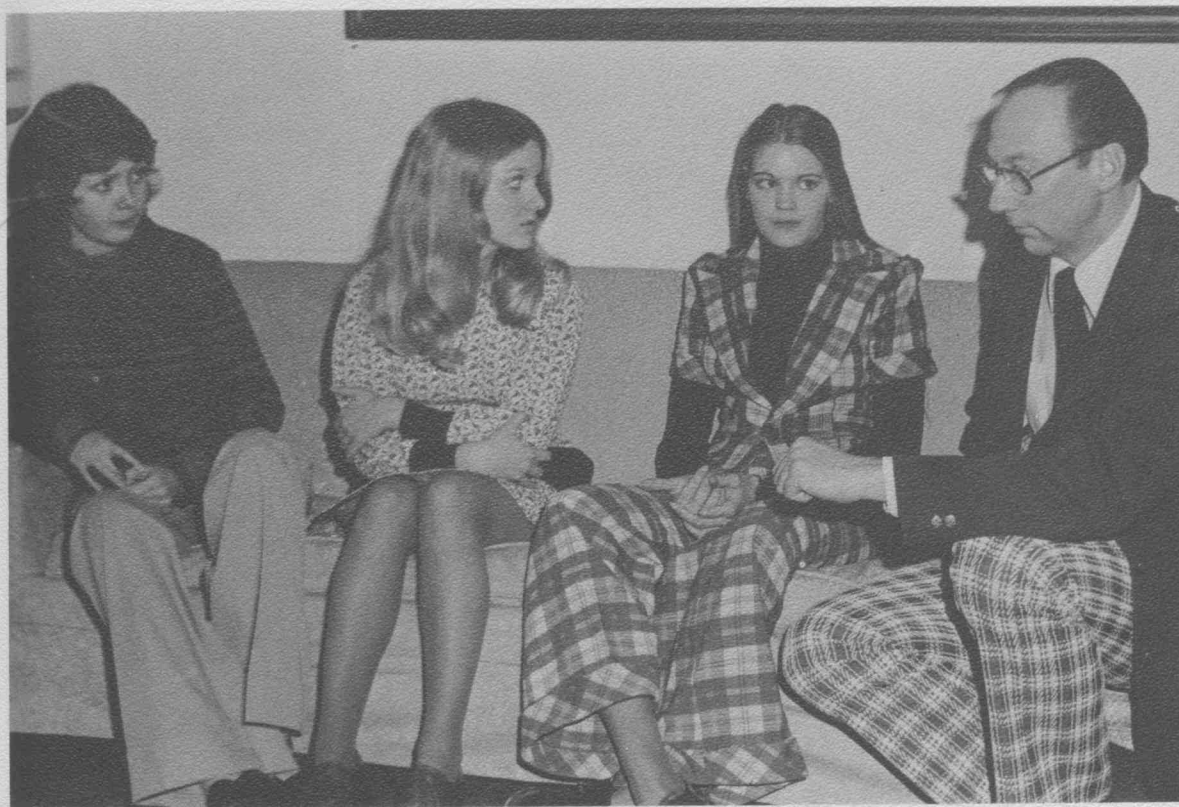

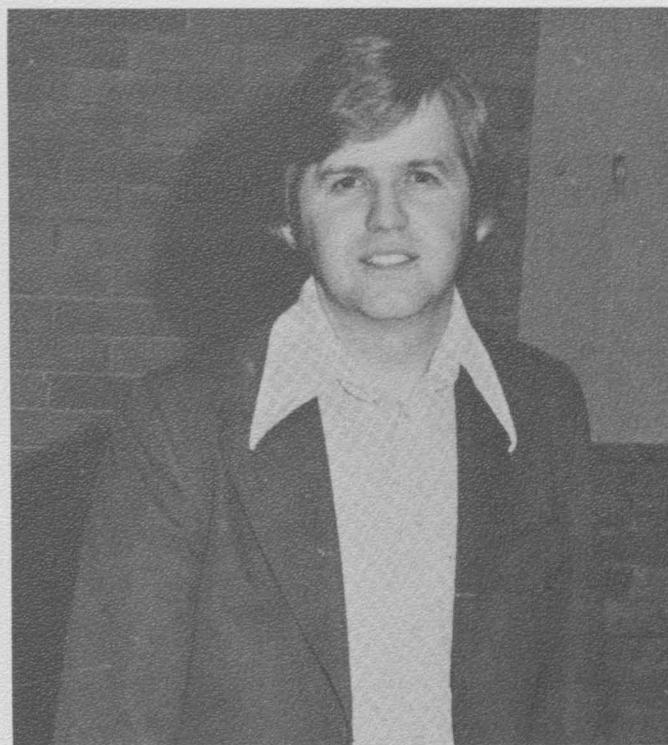

Boys' and Girls' Association officers and advisors met during the summer to set up a dress code for the school year. Allowing girls to wear pants all year gave the officers a full time job enforcing the standards. The officers planned the Homecoming assembly and dance. Other assemblies in the year featured Janet Daines, first runner-up to Miss Teenage Pageant, and Mr. Harrison from Utah Stars.

BUSINESS Club observes businesses on field trips

Field trips to Utah Mortgage and Loan, Wurlitzers, Moores Business Forms, Utah State Business Department and First Security Bank gave business club members a chance to see local business in action. Garth Hansen, a special guest speaker, presented "So You Want To Be A Secretary" with stories and demonstrations.

Student teachers and members of the faculty sat on a panel and answered questions asked by SAE members. A bowling party, movie and snow party gave teachers a chance to meet together as SAE members.

Members of the DECA club helped take Sears' year end inventory. Students worked in bakeries, clothing and shoe stores. Students honored their employers at an Employer-Employee Banquet in February. Show cases in the Vocational Center displayed merchandise from stores employing members. Involved in the business aspect of the musical, members sold tickets, advertised with posters and printed programs with pictures of both casts and crews.

LIGHT AND SOUND CREW help at musical practices

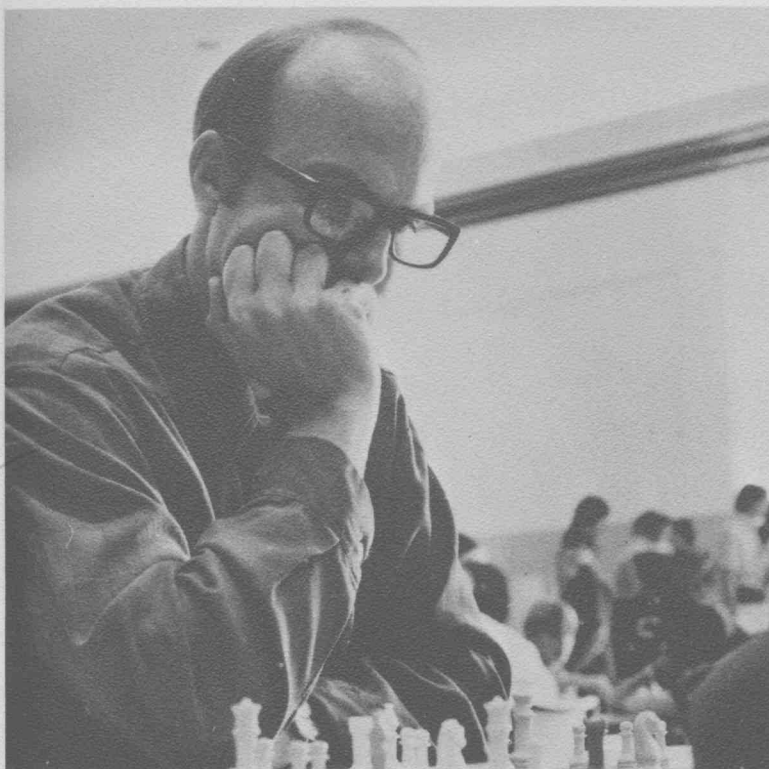

Working all day at the musical dress rehearsals on Saturday and Monday before the production, the light and sound crew rose early. Colored light banks and spot lights created mood during assemblies, the musical and school and drama production plays. Microphones, a sound recording unit and other electronic equipment provided audio programs for many audiences. Controlling these devices, a six man light and sound crew—two sophomores, two juniors and two seniors—demonstrated their abilities to work with electronics.

The scenery crew painted all the way from Emily and Cornelia's cabin aboard ship to an 1892 garden scene where Mr. Spettigue wooed Charley. With laughter, paint and sweat they created settings where the casts of the play and musical came to life.

New founded SPIRIT CLUB biggest in school history

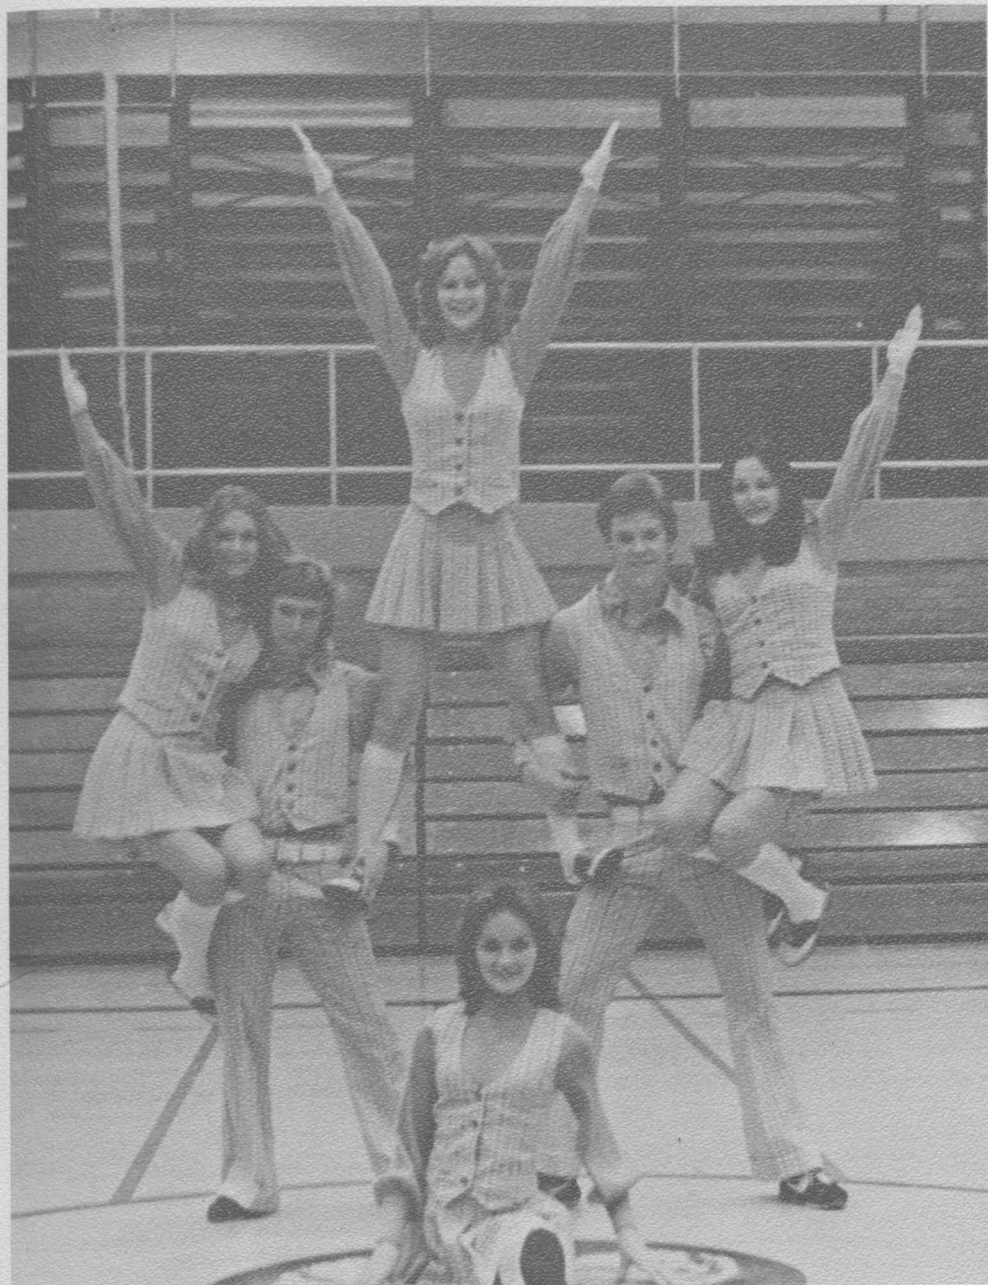

Yellow-shirted Spirit Clubbers promoted school spirit and also developed new friendships. They supported all athletic, academic and cultural activities during the school year. Designing signs and badges for school events kept members involved. The club wrote and presented a pep assembly and sponsored class competition cheers. After each test of spirit, the most spirited class kept the traveling trophy awarded by the club for a week.

Elective officers of the club are president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer. Three juniors and three sophomore representatives helped the officers of the club. Anyone who was interested in creating, promoting and supporting school activities joined the Spirit Club.

BOBKITTENS take Region in basketball with 52-41 win over Intermountain Eaglettes Intermountain Eaglettes defeated Sky View in first game of season. But Bobkittens won each successive game, defeating Intermountain 52-41 in finals to bring home Region Basketball Championship.

Track and field, volleyball and gymnastics opened for girls' state competitions just this year. USU dance major Karen Thalman, opened Sky View's girls' gymnastics program. Bobkittens repeatedly stretched stiff muscles to practice floor exercises, uneven parallels and balance beam. Volleyball team won 3rd in Region.

In singles tennis competitions, Sky View's division "B" team took 1st in Region, with team "A" capturing 3rd place. Badminton teams defeated Logan twice during pre-Region practice tournament with scores of 14-2, 12-4.

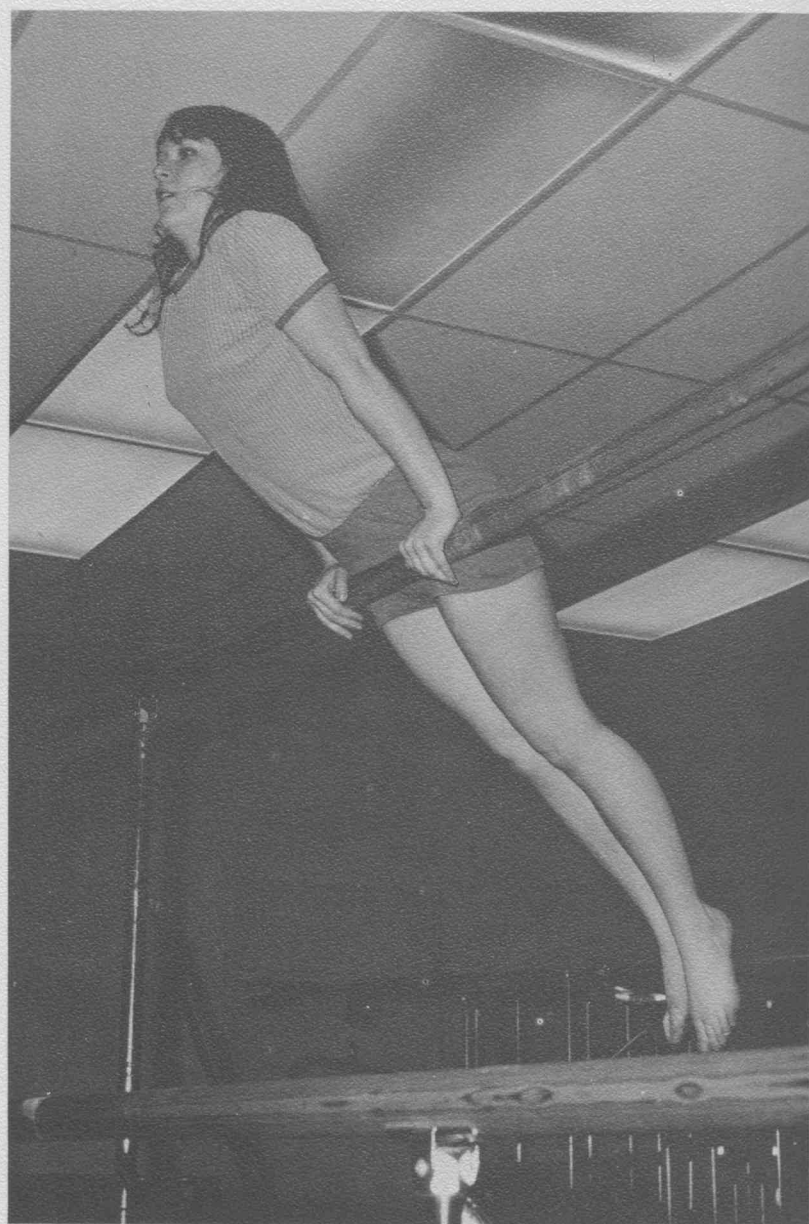

Bobkittens also competed in bowling, swimming and softball. Each girl participated in at least two sports. Mrs. Hobson's new Extra-murals P.E. class provided a girls' sports practice hour.

GOLF open to boys, girls

Though they had plenty of talent, the golf team ran into some stiff competition and ended the season with a 2-4 record. Students practiced at Summit Golf Course and held challenges for the right to compete in the Region contests. Members practiced many hours in an effort to improve lagging facets of individual games.

Hours of practice during class and after school paid off as Sky View took the girls' Regional golf championship. Out of five schools, Sky View's Susanne Hullinger won the first place medal while LaNea Parkinson took fifth and Sally Hutchinson sixth.

CROSS COUNTRY practices runs daily, wins 3 meets

After a slow start, the cross country team ended season with a record of three wins against two losses and a tie. Pushing hard, they managed to outrun all opponents, except B.E. and Weber. Coach Christensen stated that stellar performances from lettermen Kent Burton, Dave Taylor, and Ron Jones usually made the difference in meets. Workouts began early summer and continued throughout the season. The thinclads started out by running two or three miles a day and worked up to seven or eight. To sum up the dedication of the members, Coach Christensen stated, "This sport may not be as flashy as the others, but it is as tough, if not tougher."

VARSITY FOOTBALL loses by half game, with 7-7 tie

Narrowly missing Region championship, the Bobcat varsity squad finished the season with a 7-2-1 won/lost log. With an early summer start, the Bobcats worked toward the ultimate goal of a state championship. Two early losses to Roy and B.E. put the team in a hole. The Bobcats fought back, winning four straight games, and found themselves in the middle of the title race. All hopes for a championship vanished, as the Bobcats and the soon-to-be Region Champion Bonneville Lakers fought to a 7-7 tie, leaving the Bobcats 1/2 game behind at the end of the season.

Besides leading the State in scoring, with a 28.5 average, the Bobcats also had players who went on to gain extra recognition. Ed Hurst, Kim Hall, Greg Fisher, Mitch James, Jon Miles made All-Region.

JR. VARSITY holds 6-2 record, wins first season game

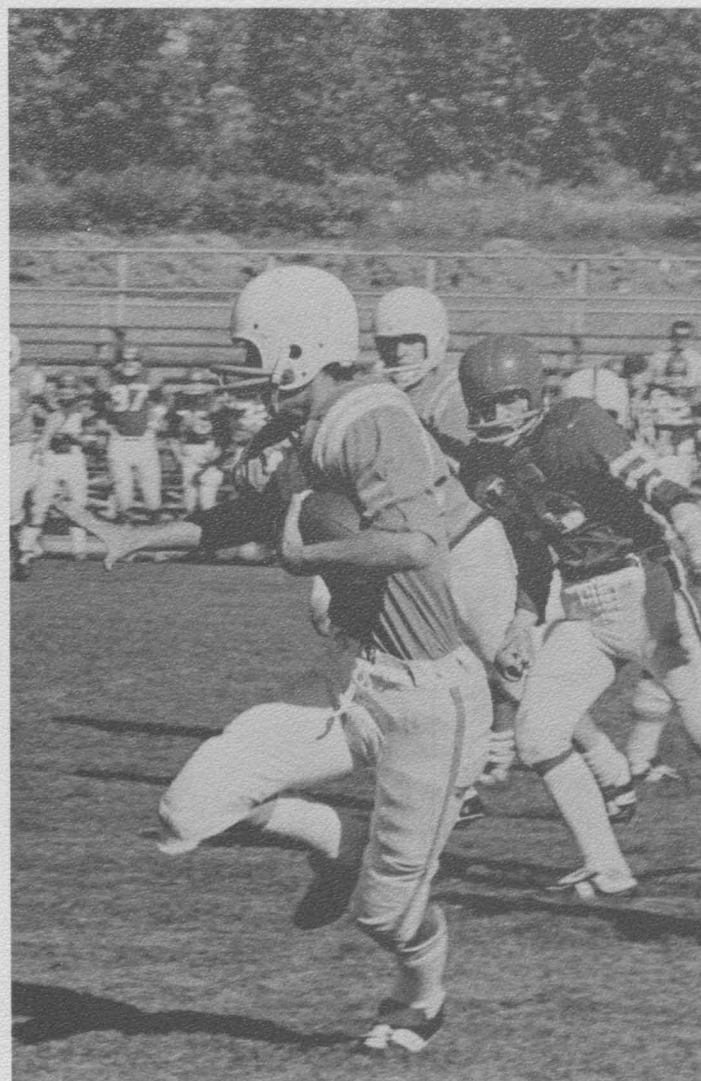

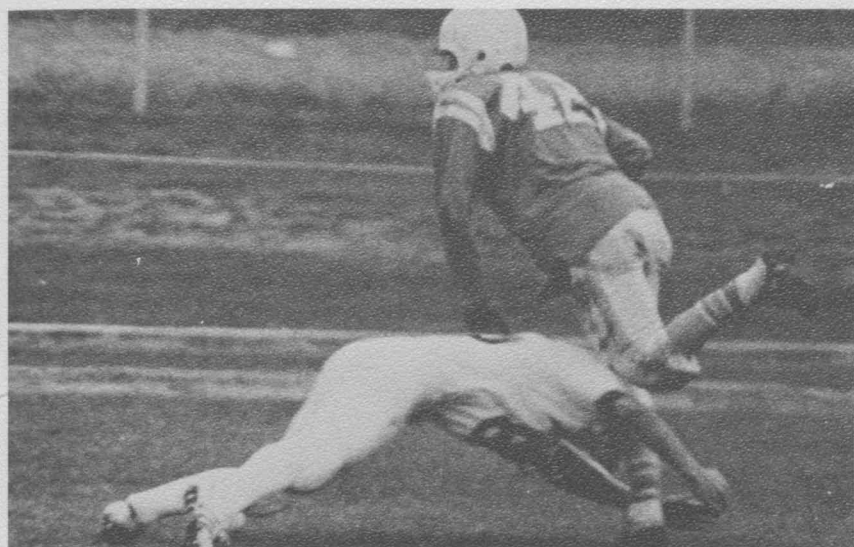

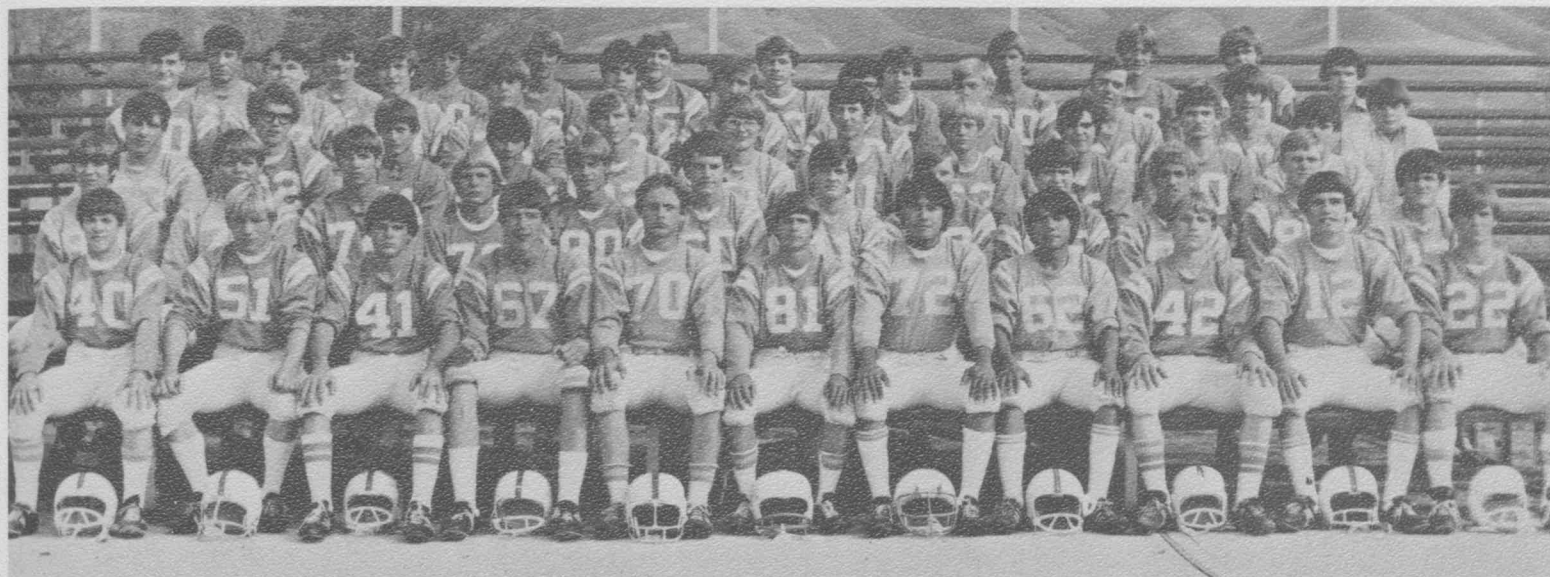

Under the direction of coaches Vilarr Ransom and Merlin Maughan, the Junior Varsity squad battled its way to a 6-2 record. Ready for the first game, JV beat Preston 42-20. The biggest disappointment was a loss to arch rival Logan, 21-32. Scrimmage against the Varsity proved valuable as JV gained the "cool" needed.

High point of the year for the "Greenies" was a 41-0 slaughter of Logan, as Sophomores ran through Region opponents. Only Weber slowed down the sophomore machine with a 7-12 score. With the help of coaches Joe Robertson and Glen Oliver-son, the Sophomores learned what was needed to have a winning football team.

CATFISH win 14th in State

Bobcat swimmers concluded the season with a 14th place finish in the State swim meet at the University of Utah. The "Catfish" came away from dual competition with a 5-2-1 record and second place in Region One finals.

Coach Vic Jensen trained talented swimmers. One of these, Wade Hall, captured 3rd and 4th place at State and a Region championship in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle events. Wade also broke every Sky View individual record, except a backstroke won by Mike Fullmer and diving won by Dennis O'Brien for Region championships.

WRESTLERS come back, win Region Championship

Though finishing behind the Box Elder Bees in the regular Region standings, the Bobcats came back to win the Region Tournament and cop the Region Championship. The Bobcats ended the year with a 5-1 record in dual meets. The "Cats" finished seventh at State competition.

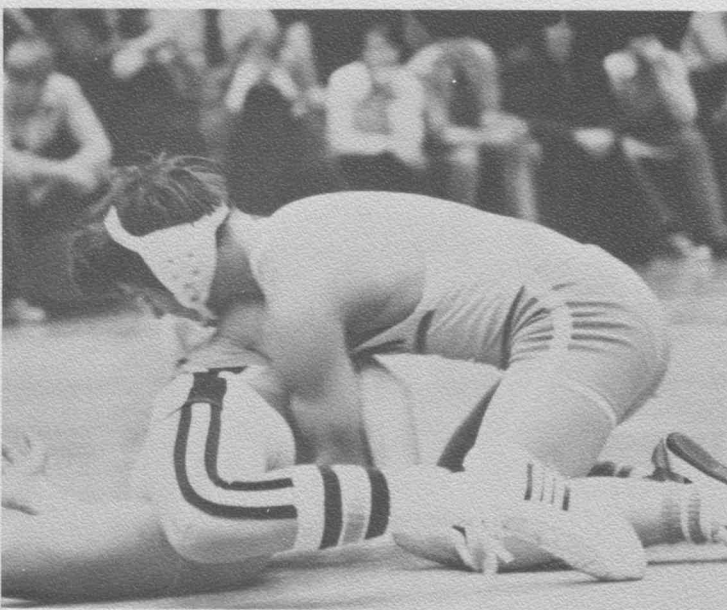

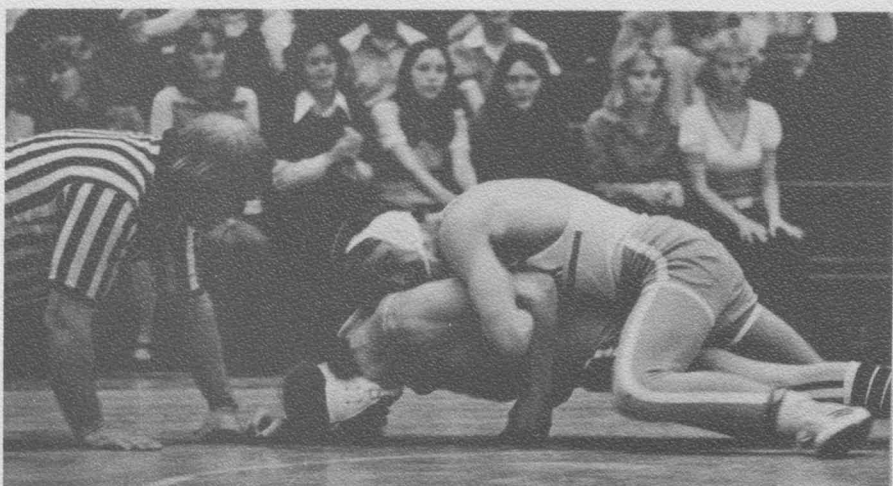

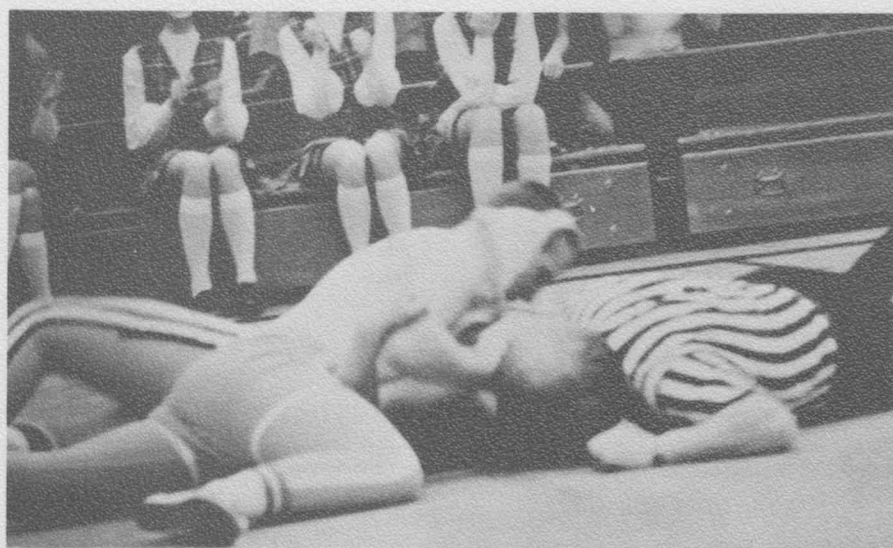

Coach Gordon Churchill, in his first year as head wrestling coach, worked with exceptional talent. Nolan Maughan took 2nd place in State. Kent Burton, Ed Hurst and Jim Loveland wrapped up Region Championships in their respective weights.

The Junior Varsity and Sophomore teams waited and watched for their chance to show wrestling powers. Coaches Earl Lindley and Vilarr Ransom tutored them in the "Bobcat" methods.

BOBCATS squeeze in as champs by one game

Combining tenacious defense with the patented Sky View fast break, the Bobcat roundballers streaked (and we use that term hesitantly) to the Region One championship. The Bobcats ended with a 9-3 record in Region play and earned a trip to the annual State tournament, the ninth in the school's ten year history. At the tournament, the Bobcats defeated Ogden, Hillcrest, and finally Kearns, earning fourth in the State tournament.

Instead of one player shouldering the load, all five players usually got into the act. Kim Hall and Larry Matthews led the scoring parade, finishing 2nd and 3rd in the Region and sporting averages of 18.1 and 15.6 respectively. When things got close, the cagers went into the full court press, one of the innovations introduced to the game by Coach Christensen, in his tenth year as coach.

SOPHOMORES practice with Varsity, gain experience

Under the guidance of Coach Merlin Maughan, the Junior Varsity ran and gunned to an 8-4 record, handing the Logan JV their only defeat of the year. The Jayvee squad showed exceptional talent as many of the players suited up for varsity competition. The Jayvee team practiced with varsity players enabling them to pick up valuable experience in mock battles.

Leading junior players included Dean Egbert, Val Gunnell and Jerry Rasmussen who also helped the varsity many times to "put out the fire".

Led by Coach Willard "Soup" Jessop, the sophomore basketball team won their share of games. As Sophomores, players learned the basics of basketball, Bobcat style, and in scrimmage with the Juniors and Seniors gained knowledge of what to do in the pressure situations. After a shaky start, the Sophomores came on strong winning their last 5 games in a row.

TRACK and FIELD practices begin indoors in February

Starting in February, the Sky View thin-clads began their quest for a Region title. A workout of running in the halls and weight lifting prepared the tracksters for heavier practices when the snow melted. Leading Bobcats included returning lettermen Bruce Miller in the 180-yard low hurdles and Tracy Phillips in the javelin. Finally they put everything to the test in their first meet held March 28 at Weber. The State meet climaxed competition at the University of Utah on May 18.

Weather stifles BASEBALL spring practices as usual

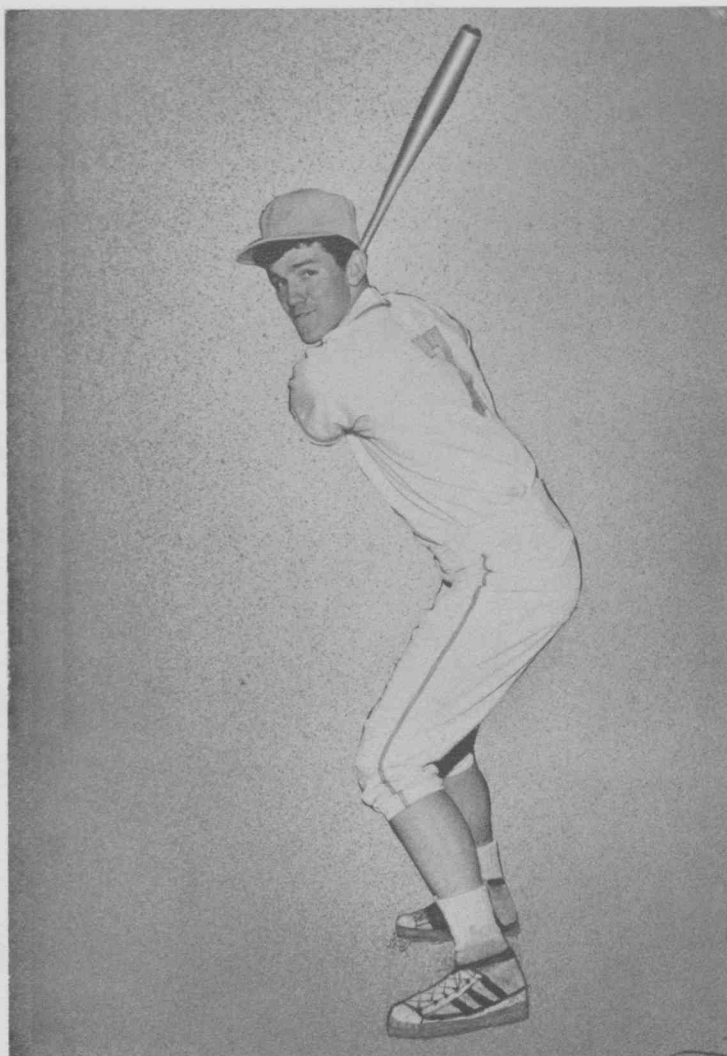

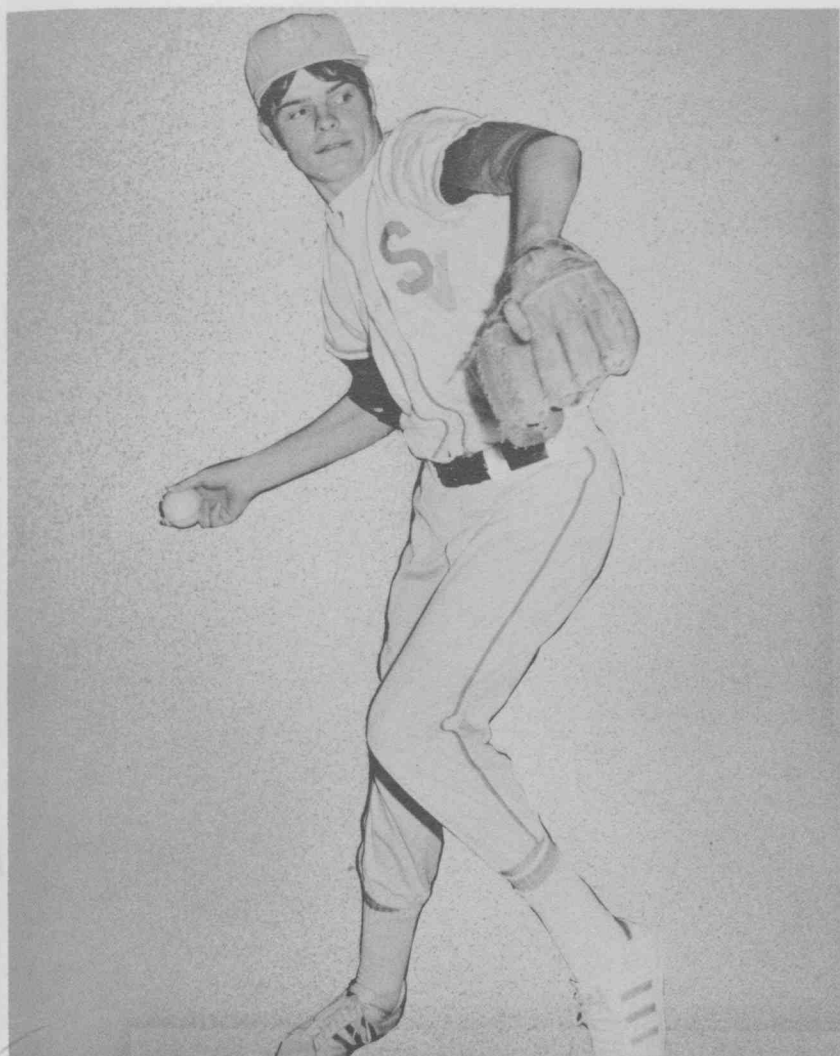

With the sound of the first fastball hitting the catcher's mitt, the Bobcats started practice in baseball. Coach Merlin Maughan guided the crew through rainy and snowy practices and revised schedules. Strong pitching and good defense comprised the Bobcats' game, aided by a potent batting attack. Pitcher Con Tarbet and outfielders Kim Hall and Val Gunnell led the battery. All work led up to the State tournament held at Ken Price Park in Murray in May.

Taking a limited number of players and turning them into a tennis team constituted the challenge issued to Coach Ivan Christensen. The results proved another in a long line of great Sky View tennis squads. Three returning lettermen, David Taylor, Ryan Tew and Dean Egbert led Sky View's tennis team. The squad prepared for Region and State finals held during May in Salt Lake City.

STERLING SCHOLARS prepare individual portfolios

KSL and the Deseret News sponsored state wide Sterling Scholar competition. Sky View department heads selected students because of outstanding work exemplified during three years of involvement in their respective departments.

Thirteen nominees prepared portfolios including letters of recommendations, grade transcripts and individual work. Special entries included pictures of performing groups, musical and play programs and uniquely designed invitations. Judges compared entries against those of thirty-nine other high schools. Preliminary judging also included a ten minute interview with a specialist in the field. Semi-finalists competed in final competition over KSL television.

Graduation speakers from NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

All seniors maintaining a 3.7 grade point average made the National Honor Society. The society provided speakers for graduation and members of Who's Who.

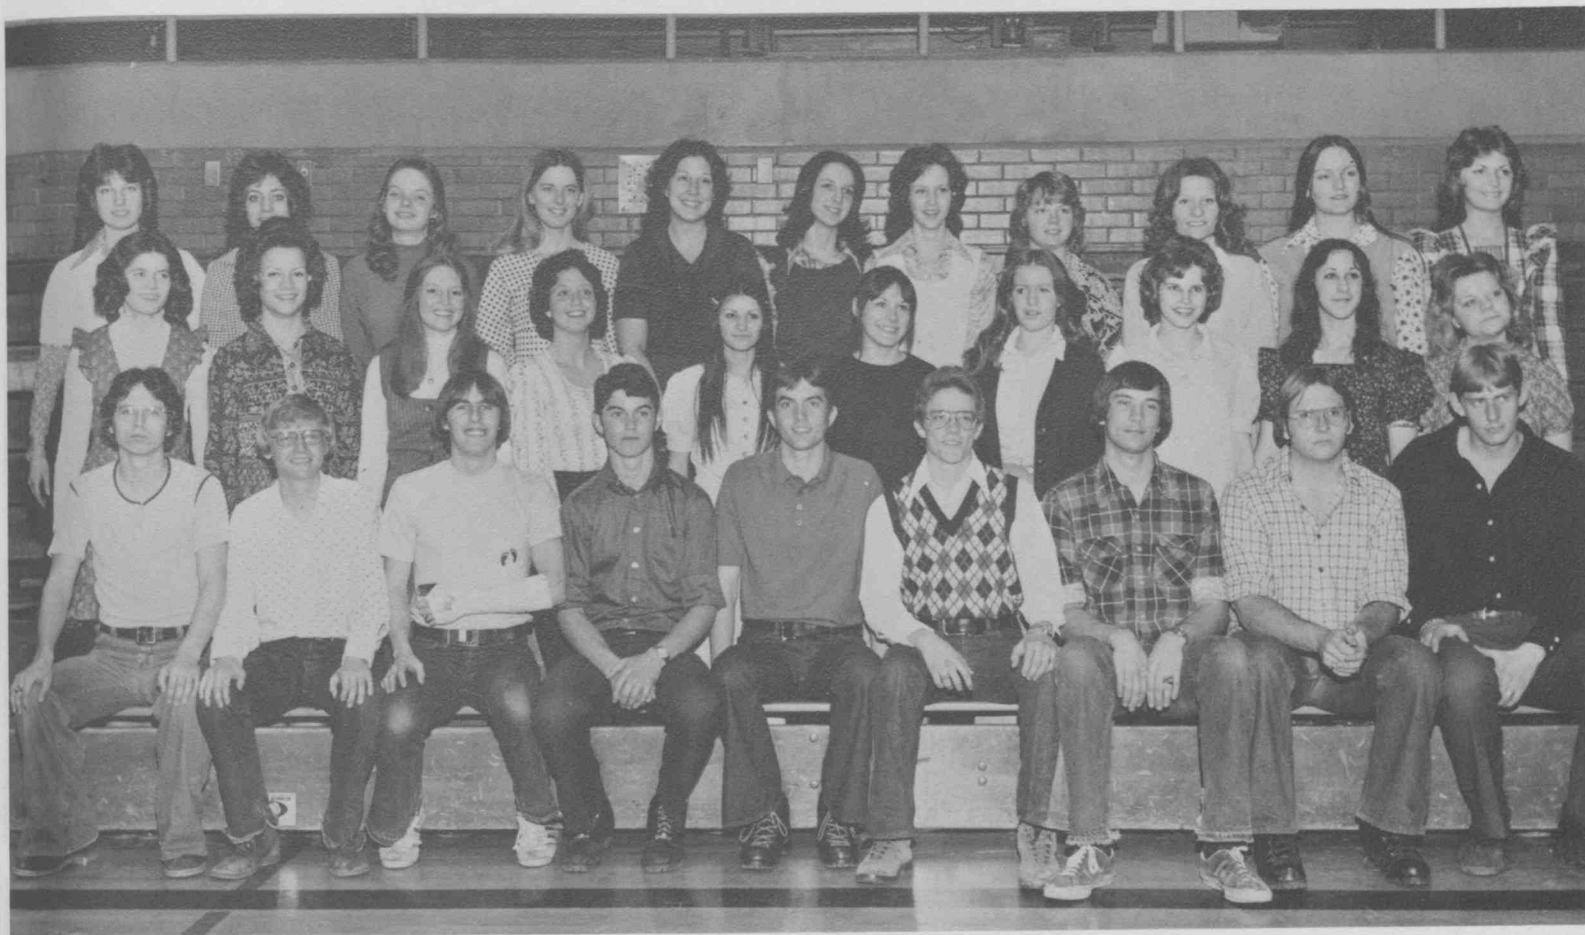

Nine senior students represented Sky View as Outstanding Teens. Administrators selected participants based on excellent academic achievement, community service, demonstration of leadership and any unusual talents or abilities. Students became eligible for regional, state, and national awards and scholarships.

Several seniors received special awards. Kristine Cannon represented Sky View as a Betty Crocker semi-finalist. Greg Fisher, Kimber Hall and Ed Hurst earned All-American football awards.

DEBATERS take 1st place in Debate and Ledge Forum

After a discouraging defeat at the Logan-Highland meet, debaters proudly won 1st in Region debate with a five-point lead. Three of the six 4-0 winning teams at the meet came from Sky View, with four teams qualifying for State. Debaters placed 4th in Impromptu Region competitions, 3rd in Oratory, 2nd in Extemporaneous speeches, and 1st in Legislative Forum—missing Region I title by one point.

Region Speech and Interpretive Meet participants practiced to compete for their 11th Region I speech trophy. Six contestants or groups entered each event at the Weber Region meet. Mono-acts, scenes, one act plays, dramatic readings and humorous readings required complete memorization of materials. Pantomimers acted without props or words. Improvisators portrayed ideas in skits with only 15 seconds notice. For the first time, story-tellers read and retold stories with only one hour to prepare.

Looking beyond today,
buying for tomorrow;
purchase wisely.

Students reminisce take long LAST LOOK at Sky View

"The Spirit of '74" means something different to each person. Seniors remember graduation—sports enthusiasts, fourth in state—girls, pants all year! Students recall the nifty fifties . . . boys in cooking . . . driving the back roads to avoid construction . . . Spirit Club . . . riding to school in the dark . . . 48-0 football win over Logan . . . fifty mph speed limit for those who could afford to drive.

Looking beyond, one recognizes individuals striving, expressing, progressing, achieving. Each contributing to make up the total—the "Spirit of '74".
