Forward with others who Deepen the happy ache of Saturday night's "Big Fisherman."
Or joy in the glad shock of a date to the Junior Prom.
All agreeing that . . .

Each individual has his own debate tactic or prized cookie recipe.
Each heart beats in its own unique rhythm,
But each in his own pattern
Seeks and struggles
And grows tall . . .

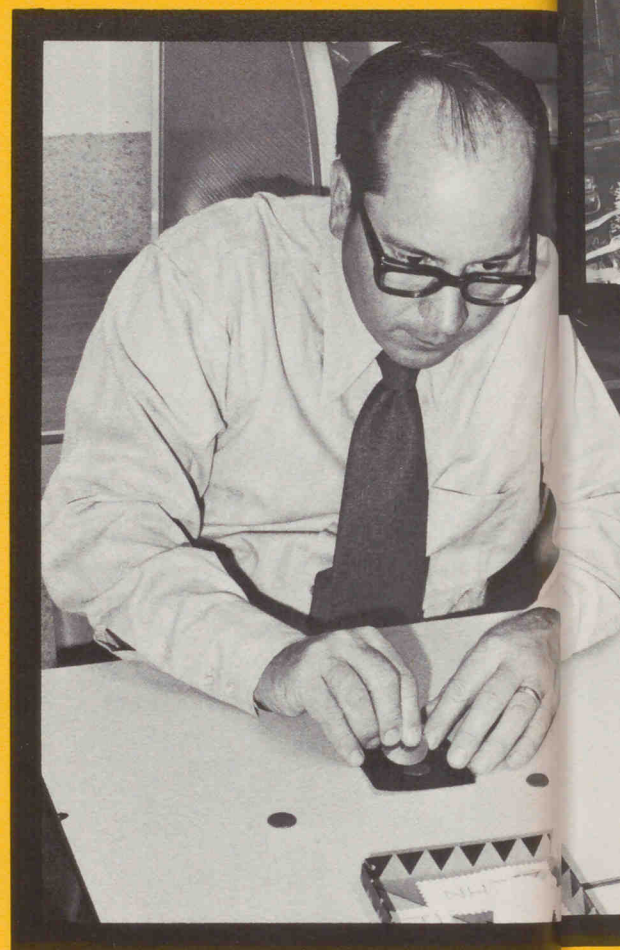

... In the same sunlight.

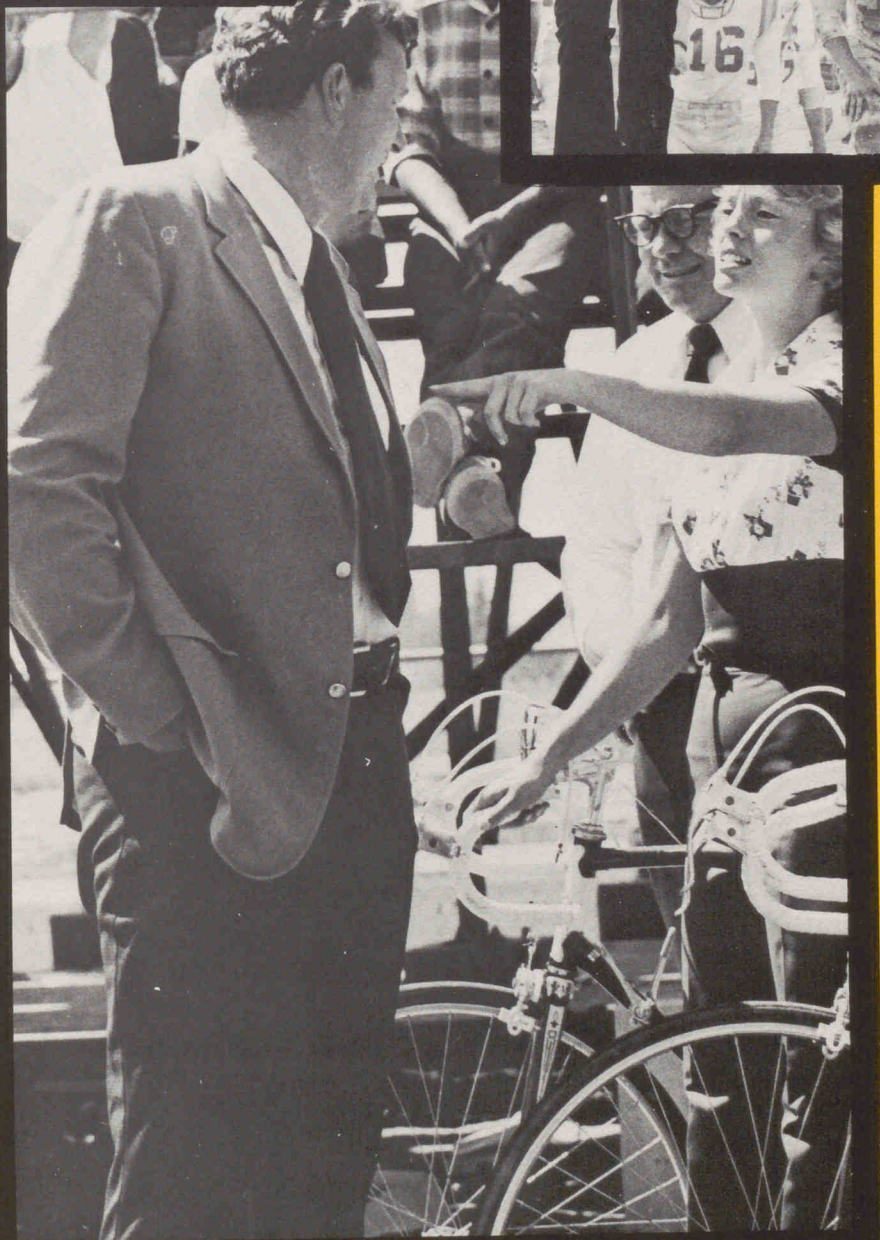

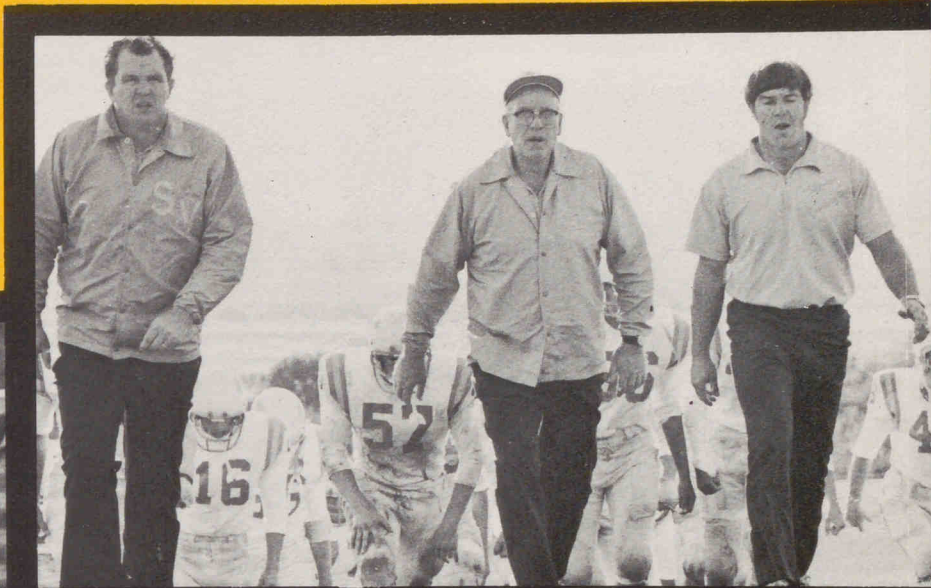

ADMINISTRATION

Small thinkers stay small.
So administrators, teachers
Assign and test, pull and nudge
Only to expand youths'
Inexperienced thoughts
To tall dimensions,
Able to stand solid by
Their own light.

Cache County SCHOOL BOARD granted permission to the band to make a trip to Edmonton, Canada in the middle of June. They also approved the plans to expand the arts and wood shop classrooms on the Cache Area Vocational School. The construction was scheduled to begin in January. New school board members elected the second week of November began their four year terms on January 1, 1975. The board voted among themselves to appoint a member as president of the school board. Meeting once a month, the school board made decisions on curriculum, paid bills and supported school with money appropriations.

"I am not ashamed to send Sky View students anywhere to compete because the students and advisors are dedicated to be the best," stated PRINCIPAL Steven Thurston. He commented on the idea of "seeing each student come to Sky View with the goal of getting involved and improving himself." To instill this desire in students, he met with every sophomore class on a one to thirty basis and discussed the importance of trying, learning and excelling. As principal, his administrative duties put him in charge of the school financial structure including budgeting of departments, the bookstore and ticket sales.

Arranging with bus drivers for the game and field-trip buses, scheduling the bus routes and dealing with Junior class problems were only a few of the responsibilities of Mr. West, first Vice-Principal. In charge of the audio-visuals, he checked out movie and overhead projectors to the teachers and kept a supply of different types of lamps. "With seventeen hundred students and most of them top kids, we don't have many problems," stated Mr. Benson, second Vice-Principal.

Assigned as student activity advisor, he coordinated dance, assembly and game schedules to avoid conflicts and advised the senior class and elected studentbody officers. "The work is time-consuming but I thoroughly enjoy every bit," Mrs. Smith replied. Although she worked as the sophomore class counselor, Mrs. Smith opened her door to all students.

According to Mr. Taggart, the junior class counselor, "I like working with young people. It helps to keep me up-to-date and, hopefully, keeps me young." When asked what he liked most about Sky View, senior counselor, Mr. Jenkins answered, "The kids!" He congratulated the students for disciplining themselves and conforming to the standards.

A Commendation is further issued to Sky View High School which in eleven years has never had a forest fire and very few fire drills (obviously unnecessary)." Above: Mr. Dahle points out the names of junior students missing from his third hour class to Mr. West.

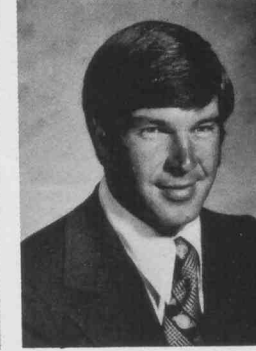

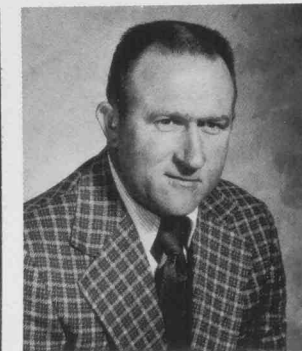

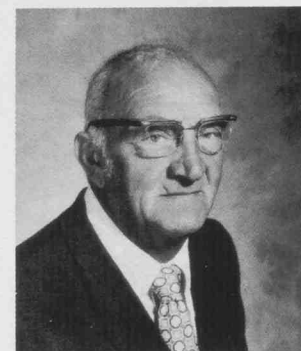

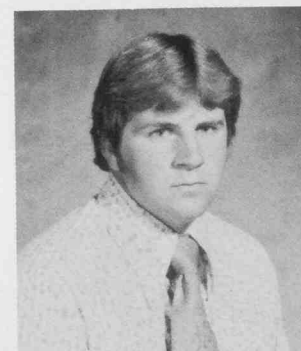

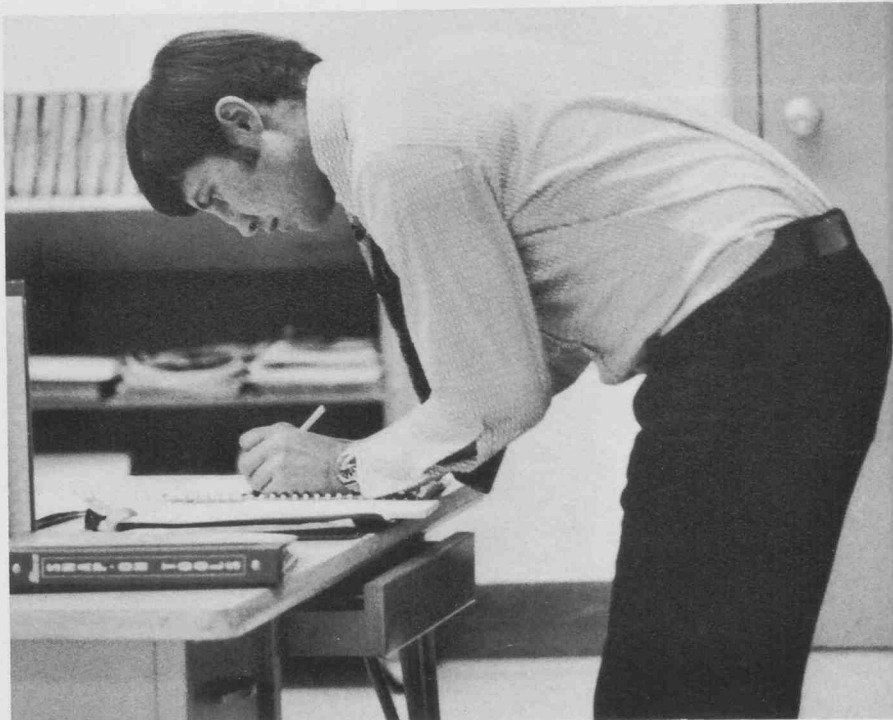

Keeping student records, writing letters and checking absences filled the school Secretaries' day. Acting as Mr. Thurston's secretary, Mrs. Ransom handled some of the student records, wrote letters, took shorthand and worked as receptionist. She also made the school announcements second and fifth hours. Mrs. Ransom remarked about her job, "It's never dull!" In charge of all financial accounts of clubs, organizations and student activity funds, Mrs. Blair, the bookstore manager, kept the financial records balanced. "I enjoy working with money figures that always balance," she said. Working eleven months during the year, Mrs. Buttars recorded absences with parents. She also typed new information cards for each registered student. Residing in the counseling hall, Mrs. Moulton, the counselors' secretary worked seven hours a day keeping student records, sending transcripts and checking seniors for graduation requirements. Working from 10:30 to 2:30, Mrs. Low, school secretary, sold lunch tickets to hungry scholars. Her first year at Sky View, she liked the students' good attitudes and conduct. Mrs. Low also helped the cooks count milk to see if it balanced with the number of lunches sold.

A new federal law brought BUS DRIVERS throughout Utah to a drivers' certification training course in Provo. The four day course stressed bus safety and the importance of the driver being alert every moment. They also learned proper bus maintenance in which the driver was taught methods for all cleaning, fixing and daily gas and oil preparation. Every six months the buses were to be inspected by a state highway patrolman for fallacies. "It is an extremely responsible job," stated bus driver Leo Krebs, "because the load I have is priceless."

CUSTODIANS conserved energy again by turning lights off as soon as possible after school. "Playing basketball with the waste baskets consists of most of the mess in rooms," confirmed Joe Richardson, "While candy wrappers and wall marks account for problems in the hall."

Turning the tables on Sky View COOKS, Food Services prepared and served them a special Christmas buffet dinner. Especially conscious of food waste, cooks planned monthly menus to include the students' favorite dishes yet continued meeting the daily requirements. "This cut waste down considerably over last year," stated head cook Donna Lou Pitcher, "and with what leftovers we do have we just fix them different for another day." Preparing hot lunch for approximately 1,000 students demanded the all day help of six cooks with six others working part time. AIDS helped Track I students on an individual basis to improve reading, spelling, vocabulary and communication skills.

Which direction shall the mind turn?
Will the future Einstein turn left to room C-12 to explore the mysteries of physics?
Or will tomorrow's Shakespeare turn right to discover past histories of English Literature?
As awareness of the bright potentials to be found in each soul dawns, Subjects now appear important for the light they shed on individuality.

Top left: Lucy Olsen, advisor, questions Special Ed. student on a book report. Top right: "Is this for real?" sigh Type I students while preparing to type tabulation problem. Above: Sheralyn Hall samples new correction typewriter as classmates wait their turn.

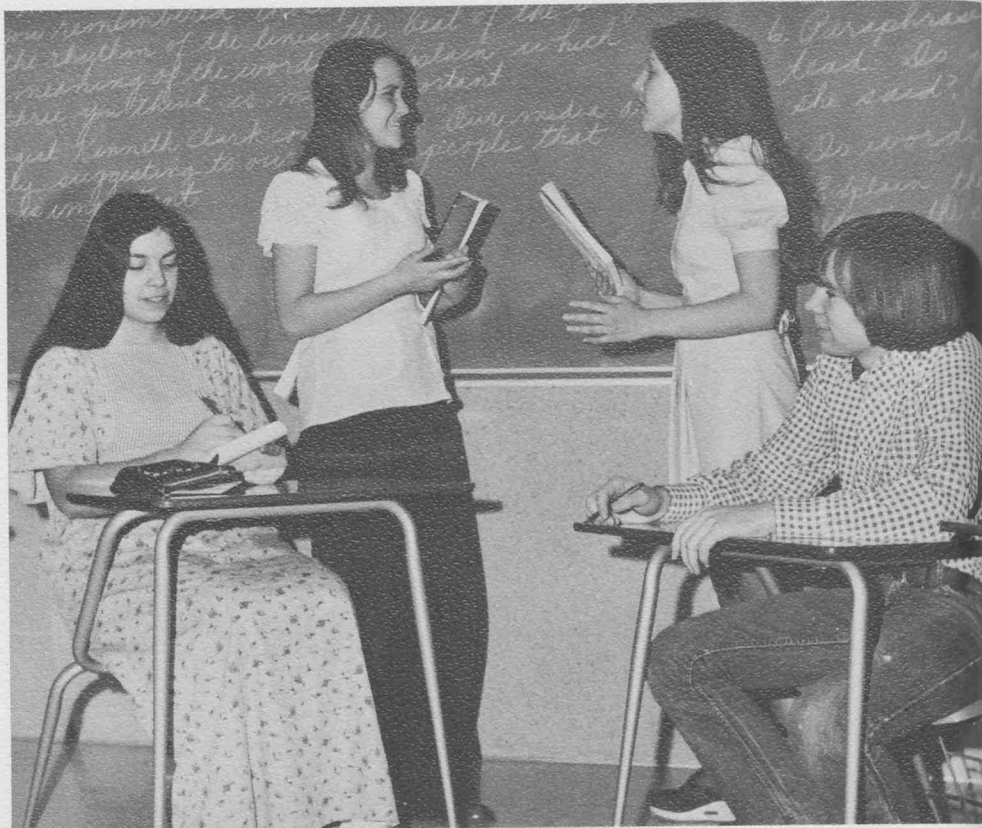

By pressing a special erase key and then retyping the correct letter, students in BUSINESS classes found typing mistakes were easily corrected with new selectric correction typewriters. Margaret Olson, the fashion merchandising manager from J.C. Penney's, instructed the Distributive Education class on buying clothes and picking styles for future fashions. She told students the subjects to take if they were interested in the field of fashion merchandising. Punching in on the time clock each day as they entered class, students in the SPECIAL ED. department simulated the employment situation. With individual help concentrating mainly on Math and English, students earned graduation credit.

With the new coach Mr. Jensen, DEBATE rap sessions, became a common sight in the Media Center and sometimes developed into heated arguments. Preliminary sessions for novice debaters began with such topics as mosquito abatement, abortion, and safety in the home. Sometimes debaters became so involved that classes changed before they realized the time was gone. "Resolved that the United States should significantly change the method of selecting the President and the Vice-President" kept debaters continually researching to prepare affirmative and negative cases. Debates with Provo, Logan, Bear River and Weber sharpened the argumentation for the state meet.

With experience in four phases, the DRIVERS' ED. program began with classroom instruction where students learned basic driving rules. They next moved to an eight place simulator. On the driving range, they practiced maneuvers such as parallel and angle parking, turn-about and 3-point turns. The real challenge came during four hours of actual road practice. Spending two hours in Mr. Roe's Art II block class, part of the INDUSTRIAL ARTS program, gave students extra time to work on their projects. Several mornings in Smithfield Canyon gave them the opportunity of drawing and painting landscapes and recreating nature on their own.

Alumnus Kent Poulsen, new teacher in the BAND program, joined with the students in the excitement over the newly purchased band uniforms that carried out the blue, white and gold Sky View colors. To further school spirit at games and hall rallies, PEP BAND members purchased matching blue shirts. Dr. Jay Welch, former conductor of the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, conducted the combined Sky View-Box Elder ORCHESTRA in a public concert. During the Christmas season the largest A CAPPELLA choir ever at Sky View practiced songs ranging from "Mistletoe" to "Give a Little Something Special" and "Unto Us a Child Is Born". They also sang songs from the movie "JONATHAN LIVINGSTON SEAGULL" during concerts and programs. More students participated in CERAMICS than ever before. Using the larger kiln and the spacious rooms in the basement of the Child Development house, they made vases, jugs, pottery and hanging flower planters.

Focusing on the care and training that was required to operate their own day care center, the Child Care class covered another aspect of HOME EC. Several twelve day sessions were planned by the students as they shopped for supplies, set up the theme and evaluated the experience with the hope of improving each session. Field trips to the Exceptional Child Care Center at USU, Head Start, Joy Dee Day Care Center, the Neighborhood House and the Primary Children's Hospital gave students insight into professional day care centers.

In the LANGUAGE ARTS department Mrs. Clark's English II class used new and exciting techniques for book reports. The students constructed mobiles from hangers and magazine pictures depicting "Jonathan Livingston Seagull", "My Darling, My Hamburger" and other books. Spanish classes learned Spanish culture and made pinatas from balloons and newspaper, decorating them as helicopters, guitars and funny-looking characters, then filling them with candy and presents.

To Mrs. Carlson, drama teacher, starting the year off right meant one-act plays, speeches, poetry recitals and monologues.

Mrs. Larsen's French III class used short one-act plays to help increase their fluency.

With the addition of five book islands, hundreds of books and a card catalog section, it seemed the MEDIA CENTER had room for everything but the students. However, the students came first according to the Media coordinators, Mrs. Christensen and Mrs. Tippetts. The students became involved in making their own slide presentations using the T.V. equipment with Mr. Adkins' help. Twenty-two students who registered for Media Techniques, served at the desk, shelved books, typed, filed and created bulletin boards. To increase concentration, speed and accurate thinking of students, the MATH department used several mathematic games. Each student paid a small fee to buy chess, checkers and puzzles, games played usually on Friday or a special "game day".

Saving lives and giving Christmas programs enlivened the NURSES AIDS' year. A blood pressure clinic for the faculty revealed one of the teachers had high blood pressure and was unaware of it. Aids spent four weeks using their skills, two at the Sunshine Terrace and two at Logan Hospital. While working at the Sunshine Terrace, the girls gave a program for the resident. Recreational projects added a new dimension to girls' P.E. Divided into nine groups, girls planned parties for different age groups; an Adult Farewell, a Jr. High Valentine's Day party, and an eight-year-old's birthday. Each party consisted of an active, quiet, mixer, relay, and rhythmic game

Meeting at school one night a week, students in Astronomy increased their background of SCIENCE by studying the moons of Jupiter and rings of Saturn. Being the only high school in Utah to teach Astronomy gave the students an extra advantage over other schools and the opportunity of taking another class to receive the required science credit. A field trip to the Hansen Planetarium, swimming and softball parties added to the year. Planning a mid-summer institute kept Mr. Summers busy as the new president of Utah Science Teachers. Mr. Hunsaker accompanied Kim Allen and Steve Fleming to a Junior Science and Humanity Convention held in Salt Lake City.

Top: During a science lab, Tami Allen measures the growth and reproduction of common bacteria. Left: Ben Morin boils chemicals testing for reactions to produce a new substance. Above: Looking at a sample of Balsam Fir, Burke Pitcher studies for a biology lab.

Psychology, offered for the first time, rapidly became a popular class with nine sections taught by three teachers. For the first time, students toured the State Mental Hospital in Provo. Dr. Carl Cheney, USU professor, with a graduate assistant demonstrated conditioned response learning using a rat and pigeon.

Psychology classes viewed the psychological films "Snake Pit" and "The Three Faces of Eve." Physical and political geography, another new SOCIAL SCIENCE class, introduced navigation, climate, international industrial complexes and transportation facilities to the students. World Culture classes heard Moshe Dyan, former Defense Minister of Israel, speak at USU. Sociology students made the traditional field trip to the Utah State Penitentiary.

"Oh, I love it!" exclaimed Jana Webb, "Everything's so much fun." Being bombed by snowballs and carried into the boy's restroom were all part of the job for approximately thirty senior CADET TEACHERS. Richard Bagley of the District Office assigned seniors to grades in the county schools to assist teachers by correcting papers, helping with special activities and supervising games. VOCATIONAL AG students correlated class work with practical experience by running a small farm in Smithfield owned by the school district. Each student could choose a personal project of raising animals or crops, or work for an agri-business or farmer and keep expenses and income records on his work. Vocational Ag trained students in the field of agri-business as well as production agriculture.

"We dream a dream and ask why not" was Sky View's theme chosen by this year's EXECUTIVE COUNCIL. Their dream took shape in the form of an SV on the mountainside. Advisors on the football field directed the landscaping with walkie talkies as the council made numerous trips to measure the area. Volunteer students laid cinder blocks. The highlighting moment came at the pep rally when spotlights flashed the SV into view. Members became better acquainted at four A.M. breakfasts at Sambos with the previous exec. council, a steak fry at Brian Johnson's house and a Valentine Day waffle breakfast hosted by Nancy Oliverson. Mid February brought diversion week with best dress, inside out, 50's, and blue and white dress up days. Students also satisfied appetites at a pie eating contest with a record-hop ending the weeklong festivities. At a cost of $600 studentbody officers added "doughnuts" to the student center decor, a combination foot rest, garbage can and back rest.

STUDENT SENATORS discussed how to build the "SV" in an economical and efficient way. Senators decided to let each class participate in the construction and contribute money from its funds to pay for it. The senators approved a recommendation for a stereo record system in the cafeteria. The system could not be heard and was removed. Common problems faced by the senators included keeping the Student Center clean, enforcing the dress standards, proper conduct in assemblies and attendance at pep assemblies. The Executive chairman encouraged student senators to discuss school policies and problems with homeroom classes. In charge of the COORDINATING COUNCIL, the Vice-chairman asked club presidents to participate in school activities. They also made posters to support the athletic teams.

John Mays, Neil Murray and Myrna Miller entered their last year at Sky View as SENIOR class officers. President John Mays enjoyed all sports—especially football and canoeing. His interests included Front Porch, choir activities and working with leather. Motorcycling, playing football and baseball and “having a good time” were synonymous with Vice-President Neil Murray. Myrna Miller, secretary, worked as copy editor on the Yearbook staff, portrayed two roles in the school play and enjoyed being secretary in the A Cappella choir. Her likes included piano playing, sewing and all sports. Seniors of '75 met class demands by adorning Homecoming float with Vampires “drinking blood” to the motto “We’ve got the Power to Devour—Royal Blood.” Nov. 15, brought colorful lights illuminating trans-world silhouettes to Senior Dance theme “Color My World.”

"If we work together, we'll have a good year," said Junior Class President, Denis Hendricks. The JUNIOR CLASS began the year by helping their class officers Denis Hendricks, Todd Johnson, and Lisa Jensen build a Homecoming float. They won first place in the class float competition with "Whip the Royals". Juniors sold colorful posters during lunch hours in November to finance a class party, making approximately $60.00. Denis Hendricks enjoyed playing and watching sport events, taking electronic and automotive classes, eating peanut butter and jelly sandwiches and reading books.

Sports enthusiast Todd Johnson, vice-president, practiced throwing the javelin, playing basketball and football and consuming strawberry pie.

Lisa Jensen, secretary, participated in FHA and performing girls' glee. Her hobbies included riding bikes, playing tennis and the piano and driving a car. Lisa stated, "This year Juniors are the best."

Election results showed a girl trio for this year's SOPHOMORE CLASS officers, a first at Sky View. Sophomores' Homecoming float suggested that Sky View "Boil the Royals". A December assembly based on the Carol Burnett TV show and entitled "The Carol Burnedout" show featured "Sonny and Cher", "Flatless McKnight and the Flips" and "The Director and the Cast". Dancing to the music of "Sweetearth", the sophomores held their dance in the boys' gym rather than the cafeteria to accommodate the largest ever 600 member class. Kris Bradshaw, president, liked getting involved in school functions, playing all kinds of sports, singing and eating enchiladas. Participating in student government in eighth and ninth grade, SueZan Litz, vice-president, continued her involvement in school activities. She enjoyed eating "Big Cherries" candy and singing sacred and popular songs. Linda Vail, secretary, loved going skiing, running track, singing and knuckle fighting. "That's why my hand's always bruised", she said.

Top: Consisting of SueZan Litz, vice-president; Kris Bradshaw, president; and Linda Vail, secretary; the Sophomore class officers became the first girl trio in Sky View's history. Left: With only a few remaining days before the final production, Kris Bradshaw, president, makes an announcement to encourage all participants in the Sophomore class assembly to come to the rehearsals. Center: Grasping the podium in front of her for the much needed support, SueZan Litz, vice-president, gives nomination speech to fellow classmen during the first Sophomore class meeting of the year. Right: Member of the Spirit Club, Linda Vail, secretary, tapes up one of the many posters made each week by this organization to try to increase school spirit in all activities at Sky View.

Does the journey seem long,
The path rugged and steep?
Are there briars and thorns on the way?
Do sharp stones cut your feet
As you struggle to rise
To the heights through the heat of the day?

Is your heart faint and sad,
Your soul weary within,
As you toil 'neath your burden of care?
Does the load heavy seem
You are forced now to lift?
Is there no one your burden to share?

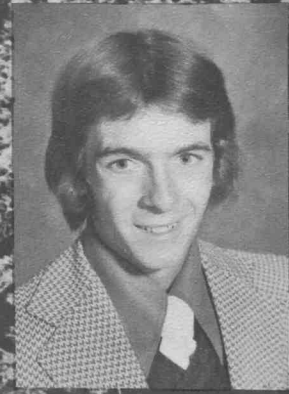

Let your heart be not faint
Now the journey's begun;
There is One who still beckons to you.
Look upward in gladness
And take hold of his hand,
He will lead you to heights that are new.

Top: Students make a dream become reality by building an "SV" on a hill east of Sky View. Winn Peterson donated the property to the school for the purpose of constructing an "SV". Right: Digging next to the surveying lines marking off the "S" Kirk Peterson, John Mays, Rick Meldrum and Craig Rawlins make preliminary preparations before setting in the cinder block. Below: "A real Noah's ark!" exclaims a spectator as the Seminary's float sails down the street of Smithfield during the Homecoming Parade.

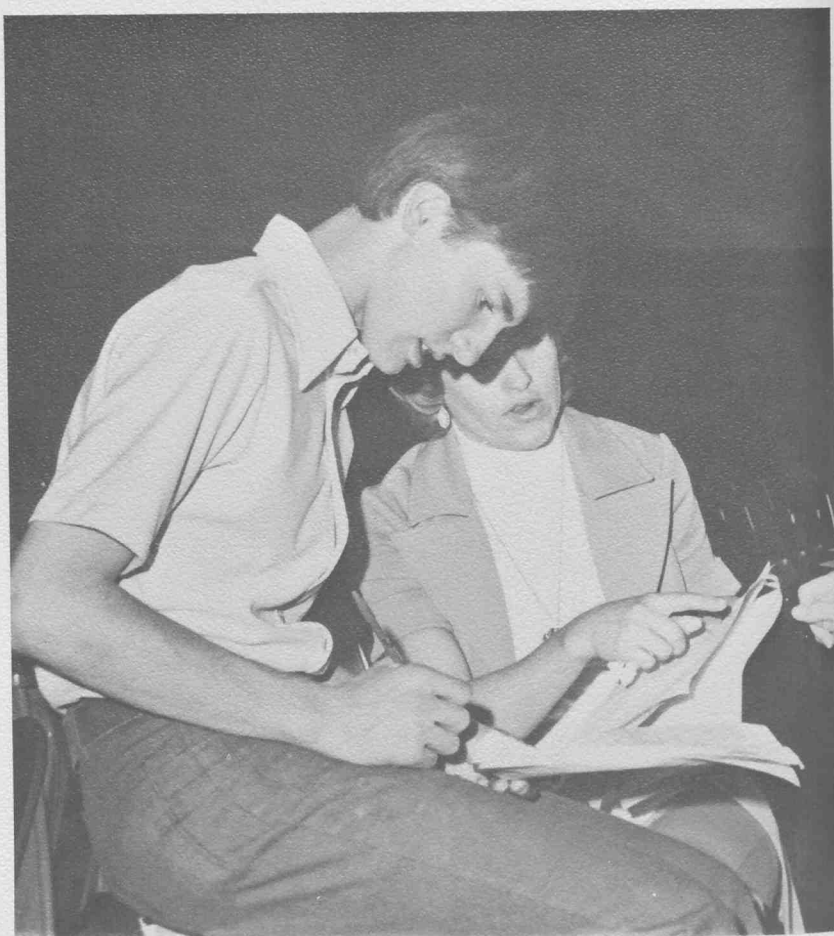

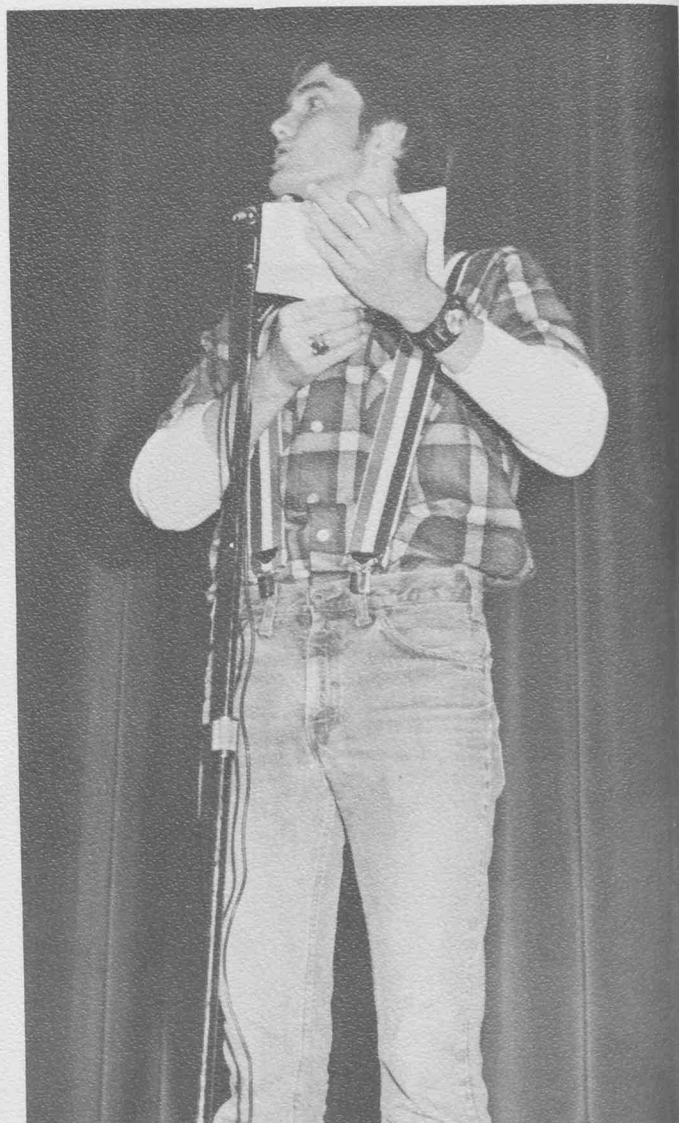

Many new additions sparked this year's traditional HOMEcoming WEEK. A long awaited "SV" made of cinder block, sweat and student energy added spirit to Sky View. Located on the hill east of Sky View, the "SV" made its first formal appearance in the beam of a spotlight at the rally. Each class donated money from their funds to finance the project. Appearing in new uniforms purchased by the school board, the marching band opened the parade as the flag twirlers and banner guard, also dressed in new uniforms, led the way. Taking first place in the float building contest with the slogan, "Sky View will rain over Royals. We Noah we're gonna win!" The seminary float resembled a miniature Noah's Ark. The FFA and FHA won second place with the Girls' Association a close third. In class competition the Juniors built the winning float. Working behind the scenes, Vaylene Hansen, Paul Pierson, Loretta Hansen and Sam Weston arranged for the parade and encouraged studentbody organizations to enter floats in the parade.

With the theme, "Time is my Friend", Sky View finished the HOMECOMING Week with a Homecoming Assembly directed by the Girls' Association. Two assemblies provided adequate seating space for the 1700 students and alumni wishing to attend. The assembly featured a formal introduction of the Homecoming Royalty. Barbara Buttars, last year's queen, came back to introduce the new royalty. The Bobcats lost the football game against the Roy Royals with a score of 6 to 12. Saturday night the boys' gym, decorated in ghoulish fashion for the Halloween season, changed into a ballroom for the Homecoming Dance. "Timeline" furnished the music, and Linda Pitcher, Carolyn Smith and Ginger Hamilton sang the theme song. Mr. Summers, dressed as a scarecrow, welcomed the couples to the dance. Frightened girls jumped back as the thought-to-be manikin stepped up to shake hands. The Art Club painted signs for store windows and hung a banner above Smithfield's main street welcoming alumni.

Experimenting with triple casting gave Sky View's SCHOOL PLAY, THE BIG FISHERMAN the largest cast ever. Rotating the parts of actors and actresses meant players acted a certain character one night while the next performance brought an entirely different role. Opening to a scene in the tent of an Arabian princess, the Biblical play reveals the story of a young half-Arabian half-Judean girl, Fara, who vows to avenge her Arabian mother by the death of Herod Antipas, her father. Disguised as a camel boy, Fara journeys to Jerusalem where hungry and ragged she's taken into the home of Simon Peter, a fisherman by trade. There she learns the tale of a Carpenter who performs strange miracles and talks against vengeance. Curious, she follows this Carpenter and becomes converted to His word. Simon has no patience for such "nonsense" but as an eye witness to the healing of a crippled boy he cannot deny what he has seen. He takes up the faith, becomes converted and devotes his life to the ministry.

Top right: "Wild poppies! I'd like to see this Carpenter feed his family on that," ridicules Simon Peter as he listens to the tales of the Carpenter. Center: "Simon, son of Jonas—I have need of you," comes the Master's call to Simon in a vision. Right: "It's cold and dark—they're crucifying Him today," shivers the servant girl Murza as she serves wine to the Roman guards. Above: "You should hire her for your library before the Tetrarch gets her for his," counsels Jairus' loving wife Adiel.

Top left: "Mother you're sitting up . . ." exclaims Fara, relieved to see her mother is better. Top right: "If only I could make you see, sir, you must be a man first—a Roman after," reasons Simon in an attempt to convert Mencius to the faith. Center left: "Simon, take us to the Master," pleads Leah Asher. Center right: "Joel, I don't ask much, just to get away from the old folks," sobs Myra. Left: "Everything I've told you is true," demands the honorable Johnny. Above: "Lepers, they'll poison the whole crowd," claims the disgusted Hannah.

Colored water and two baby statues holding pots of pink and orange flowers atop two white pillars, made an enchanting entrance to the dance floor.

Working under the direction of Miss Zanni and Mr. Jenkins, Venna Hurren, decorating chairman, gathered ideas from different seniors to create the colorful ballroom. Seventh and eighth grade girls from South Cache, directed by Joyce Richman, danced to "It's a Small World" and "Crocodile Walk" for the floor show. Helen Denton sang the theme song. The band "Fulltilt" provided the music for the occasion.

Silhouettes of Dutch, Hawaiian and Japanese children cut from black construction paper and taped to bulletin boards covered with white paper bordered in black, illustrated the theme "Colour my World" at the SENIOR DANCE.

Seniors stapled strips of pink plastic making a canopy over the north and south sides of the gym. They also tied plastic from the balcony railing to a wire on the floor to hide the bleachers and draped it from wires running from balcony to balcony, making artificial walls on the east and west sides of the gym. A fountain sprinkling

Holding the CHRISTMAS DANCE in the boys' gym to accommodate the enormous numbers attending, challenged the Sophomores' decorating abilities. Former tenth grade classes first experienced decorating the cafeteria before tackling the gym. Scalloped red and white plastic enclosed the dance floor, hiding the bleachers. Santa Claus showed up to take orders from the "good little" seniors, juniors and sophomores present. He also managed to steal a partner and wiggle his bowlful of jelly and jingle his bells. Mr. Ariel Benson provided photographs for the couples wanting remembrance pictures. JaNae Roundy sang the theme song, "Merry Christmas Darling."

Chopping down dead trees, spraying them white and draping them with crepe paper required many hours but achieved the mystical effect desired for the JUNIOR PROM theme, "Living in a Land of Make Believe." Elimination of false ceilings cut cost and decorating time. It also provided a cooler dance area. The music of "Time Line," a Salt Lake group, kept the dance floor filled, breaking only for the floor show. During the floor show "Blue Water Incorporated," a special musical group, performed on one balcony while couples ate white cakes and grape punch in the other. Crowning of the royalty was enhanced when small boys presented the queen and her attendants crowns from a pillow.

With the theme "Ride 'em Cowboys," the FFA and FHA sponsored the annual GIRLS' CHOICE DANCE. Decorating the cafeteria in a western fashion meant girls could wear fairly new denims and cowboy style. Acting as sheriff, Mr. Vernon Summers kept couples from dancing too close and married them at a marriage booth, used as part of the decorations. Mr. Spence Hill taught couples square dancing and called the rounds. The dance held in the cafeteria attracted over 430 couples. Ginger Hamilton sang the theme song. "Sounds Unlimited" furnished the music. Crowning the royalty occurred during intermission.

With a crack of his whip and the BANG of his guns, Jack Gauge demonstrated his quick draw and deadly whipping skill in a NATIONAL SCHOOL ASSEMBLY. Four brothers from Ogden, "The Brunsen Brothers" entertained the studentbody in a morning assembly by playing their trumpets. From central England, "Cockney" sang "Jump Down, Turn Around, Pick A Bale of Cotton", some Beatle numbers and other songs by John Denver. Controlling actions of a few students through hypnosis Jack Lythgoe made Tyler Johnson scream "Yeah, Sky View!" after hearing Mark Hudson yell, "Shut-up".

Performing in an early morning ASSEMBLY, the Lamanite Generation trio sang "Go my son . . ." as the rest of the girls in the group pantomimed traditional sign language to the song. Together four years, "The Village Voices", performed their last time as a group. Calico Company brought rhythm to the stage with jazz dancing. Kirk Beecher, first place winner in the Rhythm Rhapsodies contest at USU, entertained the audience by playing the "Blue Danube Waltz" with his hands. Ellen Beecher played the flute and Tom Nielsen the piano to accompany him.

Da. Da. Da. Da. Da. — Catman! The greatest hussler of the previous game received a Bobcat pin with a kiss to the Batman theme song during PEP ASSEMBLIES. "Clowning Around," hosted by the cheerleaders, sparked studentbody spirit for the new school year. The Logan-Sky View football game brought a shoot-out between Bobcat and "city slicker." Setting the stage with authentic western costumes Mandy White (Bobcat) and Leslie Jessop (city slicker) came draw to draw. Mandy's gun stuck, so she shot and killed "city slicker" with her bare finger. Coming early mornings and staying after school, cheerleaders dedicated themselves to writing, planning and putting on pep assemblies. Selling candles door to door earned money to pay expenses for the extra costuming and props used.

Keeping actors aware of their motions, Sky View's MUSICAL, "Pajama Game", adopted pantomime rather than using the traditional props. Up-dating of the show made for easier costuming as performers could choose from their everyday wardrobe. Nightwear adorned the stage in the final scene while orchestra, accompanists, directors and alternating cast, wearing pajamas all four nights, added atmosphere to the production. The scene opens in Rapid City, Iowa's pajama factory where workers plead with their hard core boss, Mr. Hassler, for a mere 7-1/2¢ raise. He won't budge, so factory head, Prez, gathers a committee to devise plans to force him to. Babe, a sewer in the factory, joins in the plot against Hassler and in doing so goes against the manager, Sid, her lover. Sid, tired from the feud at work and from fighting with Babe, "borrows" the factory's register book only to find Hassler has embezzled. To avoid scandal, Hassler gives the raise, Babe and Sid reunite, and they all become one big happy "Pajama Game."

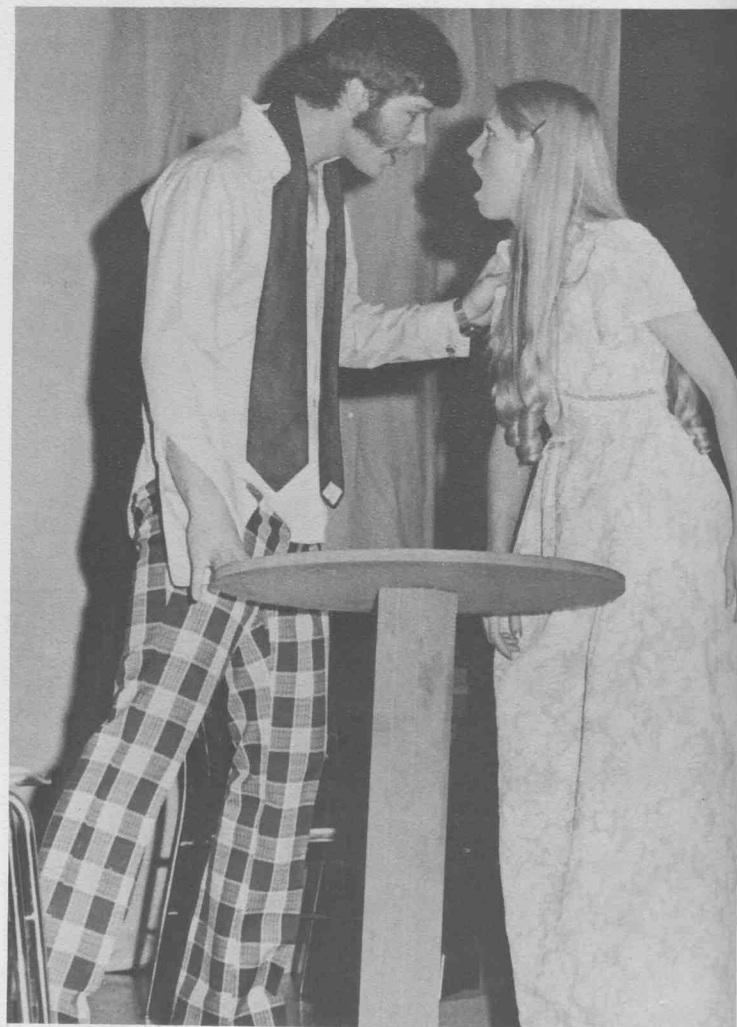

Top: "She's not at all in love," sing the factory girls to Babe. Right: Babe and Sid convince the audience that "married life is lots of fun." "two can sleep as cheap as one." Above: Embarrassed, Hinzie bends over to pull up his Sleep Tite Pajamas.

Can't waste time," sing the factory workers, Brenda and Poopsie. Left: "Don't stand there and tell me about Marks and Klines!" Mr. Hassler shouts to Mabel. Above: "I know a dark secluded place," sings Gladys to Sid as they plan a dinner date at Hernando's Hideway.

MUSICAL cast varies performance with pantomime.

Broken typewriters, lost negatives and Saturday sessions to meet deadlines heightened the problems of the AURORA staff. Senior staffers welcomed the new Junior staff by pulling them out of bed at six o'clock and taking them to breakfast. Three of the Senior staff members attended a week long Publication Workshop at BYU, sharing ideas with other yearbook staff members throughout the western states. The Junior staff members traveled to Sun Valley in October to a Publication Clinic for staffs in the Western Region. Short on staff members, Brian Flammer transferred into the Yearbook class to help with the sports pages. The Senior editors selected the theme . . . In the Same Sunlight. A new style for copy blocks and no running heads changed the look of the Aurora. Senior class members also voted for colored senior pictured and agreed to pay $2.00 to help with the printing cost.

CATONIAN staff designed a change of scene by "plastering" the walls of the Pub room with last year's school newspapers. Correlating issues with school activities, such publications as "The Grizzly Undertaker" and the "St. Patrick's Day" paper added to hall decor. The "Undertaker" was a special paper to promote spirit on days of Sky View-Logan rivalry, while green print gave the St. Patrick's edition an extra boost. To observe publication procedures, staff members toured Watkins and Sons' printing press in Providence. Learning about lay-out and copy style, new members attended USU for a week of instruction from journalism majors throughout the country. "Getting acquainted presented few problems," confided editor Cindy Anderson, "but we developed deeper friendships through activities such as going to basketball games and then to someone's house for snowball fights and food!"

Splitting from the Catalyst, the LITERARY CLUB worked to produce the Encounter, a magazine of exceptional articles submitted from the composition and creative writing classes. Students published two issues at 25¢ each. Activities consisted of building a Homecoming float, planning a Christmas "potluck" party at Sue Zollinger's and discussing favorite novels read by club members. With a change in organization the CATALYST staff members gained office through appointment rather than election. Staff members removed contestants' names and substituted numbers before preliminary judging and elimination. A final judging decided the poetry, art, short stories, prose, photography and play entries to be compiled.

Activities were a big part of the MARCHING BAND season. Looking sharp in their new uniforms they participated in such activities as the Sky View Homecoming, USU Homecoming, Preston's annual parade and rodeo celebration, Pioneer Day Parade in Ogden, and the Logan-Sky View football half time. Members of the banner guard also renewed their wardrobe with new uniforms and banners. Upcoming activities include plans for the Calgary Stampede and other short trips during the summer.

Tackling several difficult new pieces, the SYMPHONIC BAND spent 4th hour every day working and perfecting numbers for concerts and tours. Only one other high school band in Utah performed the complicated "MARS", a selection played on the Presidents' Day Concert. The students wore the new Marching Band uniforms without the overlays to achieve the tuxedo effect. Besides several concerts for the public, a tour through southern Utah during April, topped the year.

Combining with Symphonic and Jazz Bands, they performed for the public in December, February and March. JAZZ BAND members played modern music for a change of pace at the concerts. Every other week during basketball season, PEP BAND members played in hall rallies and pep assemblies. In matching blue shirts, Pep Band members played at all home games.

Performing in rose pink dresses accented by a flower at the center of the collar, 82 girls in PERFORMING GIRLS' GLEE attended several LDS Sacrament meetings throughout Cache Valley. President Janet Christenson conducted the meetings while the girls gave their own talks and provided the music. They also sang at Christmas and Spring Concerts with the Choir and Orchestra. Combined with Box Elder, Sky View's ORCHESTRA held a Winter Concert on December 4th with Dr. Jay Welch, formerly of the Tabernacle Choir, conducting. Members played such numbers as "Little Calvary Overture" and "St. Paul Suite". They also did a Chamber Concert and helped with the school musical.

Approximately 135 students joined talents and became Sky View's largest A CAPPELLA CHOIR under the direction of Mr. Loosle and Mr. Manning. The choir sang at stake conferences and special interest groups, and then at Fashion Place, Valley Fair and Cottonwood Malls in Salt Lake during the Christmas season. The A Cappella cut a 55 minute record that could be purchased by the members. Presidency members planned a tour to schools in southern Utah in April. A former student of one of these schools, Dean Samuels, also helped with the tour. The girls' long blue formals and the boys' blue shirts and suits with contrasting yellow ties added to the overall effect of their performances.

Schedules for the dedicated Vistauns included summer practices and practices almost every night after school. During the year they performed to "Ruby Red Dress," "I've Got a Name," and "Operator" for half-times. Vistauns also performed for Utah Stars and Utah State University. An invitational from Logan High and a special Christmas program provided opportunities for the girls to share their skill.

On KSL TV February 1, Front Porchers pledged $40 while performing on the March of Dimes Telerama. The day before, at Weber State, the group entertained for the Utah Educational Media Convention. Meeting three mornings a week at 7:00, Front Porch members added to their repertoire with "Morning After", "Loves Me Like a Rock", and "Touch Me in the Morning."

Using filmstrips, paintings, records and Mrs. White's knowledge, the YOUNG AMERICANS studied art, music, history and literature before and after school every Wednesday. Dennis Briscoe, Steve Fleming, Jane Jurinak, Dean Meservy and alternate Eva Albrecht competed on the KSL TV quiz show defeating Ben Lomond, 175-55 and then losing to Cottonwood, 180-135. Meeting in Mr. Adkins' room every Monday after school, the MUN Club practiced leging and passing bills to simulate functions of the United Nations General Assembly. Understanding and relating to the lands of Greece and Mauritania, occupied their time after school and at the Model United Assembly, May 1,2,3 in Salt Lake City.

Members of the SKI CLUB traveled to Park City to try some night skiing. Club members met several times to plan for the event. Occasionally on Saturdays, ski club members would meet on the slopes and spend the day skiing and jumping.

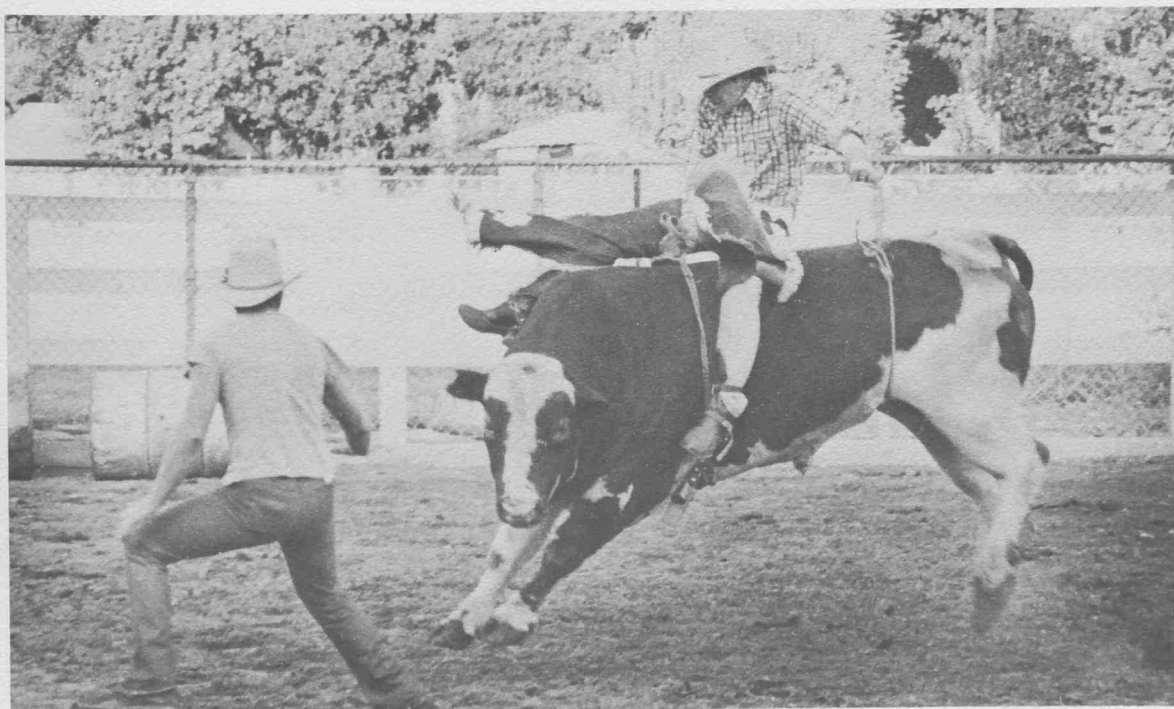

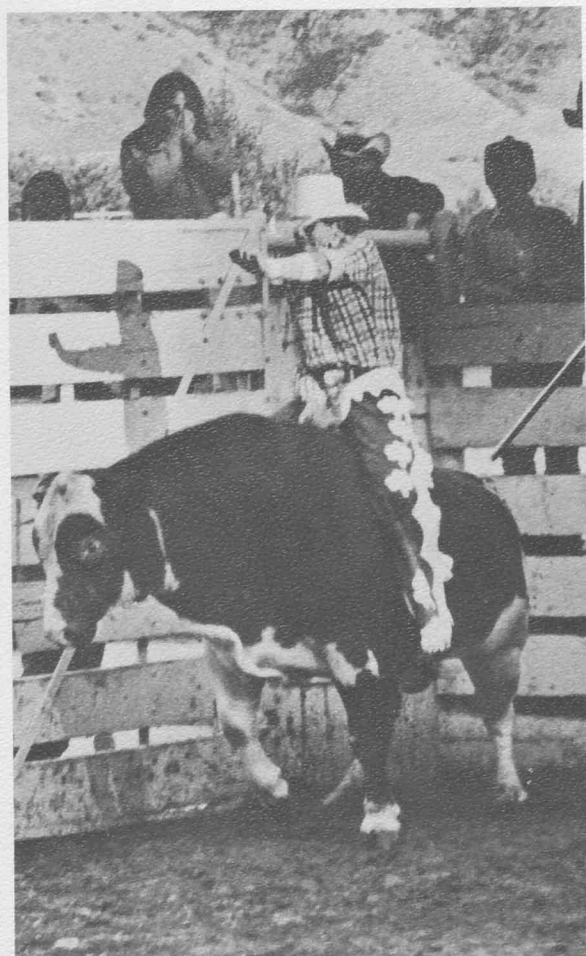

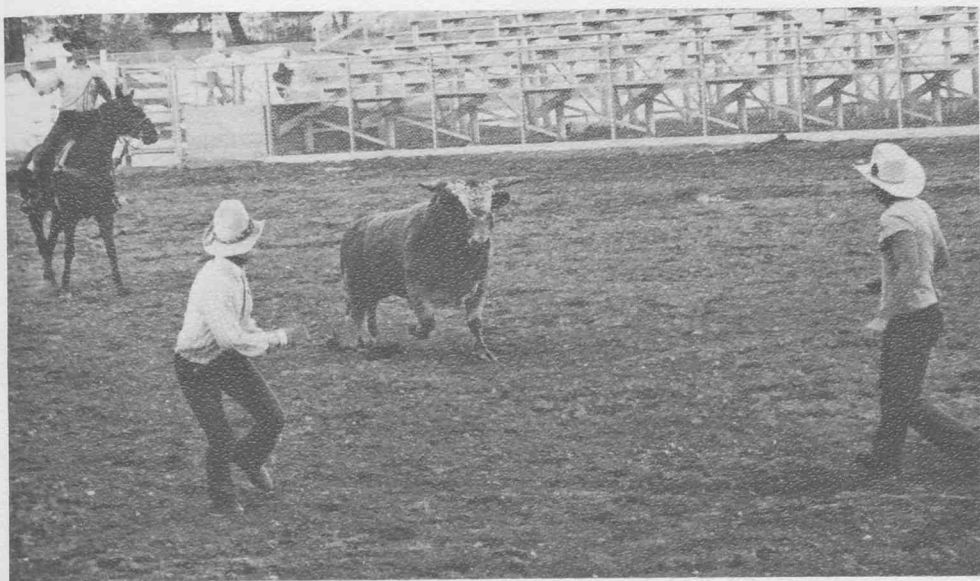

RODEO CLUB members competed with Box Elder and Riverton High Schools in September. During one such event, the horse Jim Keyes was riding ran into the rail, breaking its neck.

The club met to elect officers for the year and pick letter jackets.

“Though mikes may squeal
And lights may blow
Without the LIGHT CREW Things wouldn't go,” chanted seven devoted young men as they spent untold hours volunteering their services to school and community.
Controlling about 200 lights and various other types of equipment such as microphones and recordings, they helped assemblies, concerts, plays and the musical run smoothly. Mr. Maughan assisted them with electronic problems.

"Brian, would you mind trying on these pajamas one more time?" Pam Bair, a member of the COSTUME COMMITTEE, questioned during a musical rehearsal. Designers spent hours fitting patterns to cast members, sewing and unpicking, as each saw to it that the group of actors assigned to her had all the proper costumes. Rehearsal time for the musical and play showed mixed-up members of the PROP and SCENERY CREWS running around and tearing their hair out when scenes changed. Carrying tables, chairs and sets on and off the stage proved to be a tiring, but fun experience. Hours were spent after school making papier mache' rocks, plywood knife boards, and painting sets, but on performance nights, things settled down.

Attending the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Missouri, 16 members of the Sky View Chapter represented Utah with the Dairy Cattle Team, the Poultry Team and the Milk Quality and Dairy Foods Team, each placing 9th in the nation. The Jr. Soil Conservation District Board sponsored a Land Use Judging Contest and a Soil Conservation Public Speaking contest during the year. A radio program over station KBLW let the public know of their several activities. Ushering at several school assemblies the Key Club helped keep chaos out and late students find a seat near the aisle. For the first time girls were allowed in as "Keyettes". Sponsoring a pep rally and a dance and shampooing the Student Center carpet served the school and students.

Homecoming dance and assembly, under the direction of BOYS' AND GIRLS' ASSOCIATION, helped fill the week of homecoming activities. To help the studentbody better understand the seriousness of birth defects, the associations sponsored a film with a guest speaker to answer questions. To keep unity in the school, the Girls' Association showed the different types of pants girls could wear to comply with school standards. Caroling, bowling, dancing and eating occupied FHA members' time. During September's opening social, "Poppa's Pride" sang, club officers put on a skit, and members consumed barbecues, salad and root beer. For FHA members Christmas time brought sleigh riding, January a bowling party, and February a Girls' Choice Dance.

Gathering toys from Sky View students, the SPANISH CLUB repaired, painted and delivered them to several needy families. Other activities included a Christmas celebration at Box Elder, and Spanish dancing for the Sky View—Provo basketball game half-time show. Representing the Indian students of Sky View, members of the NASH-DOI CLUB met and planned several parties and get-togethers. With Mr. Dalley as advisor they held parties at the houses of members to talk, eat and increase togetherness and friendships. When the season changed from winter to spring, the GERMAN CLUB took off for the out-of-doors. Bike rides through Logan Canyon and water-skiing parties strengthened friendships among the over 50 club members. Learning, practicing and reviewing moves occupied Tuesday afternoons for CHESS CLUB members. Under the guidance of Mr. Hunsaker, advisor; and Larry Stocking, president; members competed against other schools.

SAE changed its name and became the FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA. A get-acquainted water-melon bust, popcorn party and root beer fest for planning the Homecoming float, and a Thanksgiving project of taking a basket of food to someone in need occupied members' time. Members also toured the special ed. school on USU Campus and heard Cadet Teachers report their experiences while helping at schools.

FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS of America replaced the Business Club. The twelve charter members toured in Salt Lake and Logan at Utah Mortgage and Loan and Moore Business Forms. Outside speakers, Dr. Ed Houghton from USU Business Education Department and Helen Lundstrom, Dean of Women at USU, added to students' business information. Members of the DECA club appeared on T.V., helped with the school musical's publicity and Sears year-end inventory. Students studied and planned for the state contests held in March, competing in advertising, displays, fashion, merchandise math, public speaking, job interview and human relations. Winners compete in Florida.

Once again there was an all-girl CHEER and SONGLEADING squad at Sky View. There had been only two other times in the school's history with no male cheerleaders. Summer clinic netted three large trophies for the group including several ribbons of superior and excellent rating.

For Homecoming activities the songleaders invited last year's cheerleaders to a breakfast. Cheerleaders hosted a breakfast for the basketball team at the start of the season.

Both the cheer and songleaders were invited to attend the Brighton Statewide Convention held in the spring. They put a rally on for the others at the convention.

Before the Logan-Sky View basketball game, SPIRIT CLUB members hosted a tea for the Logan Pep Club, Hi-Lo's, and cheering squad. Entertainment consisted of a cake decorating contest and several numbers from the Front Porch Majority followed by cake and punch. The March of Dimes Telerama, held at the Salt Palace, invited the Spirit Club for the first time. They were the largest group there and spent 24 busy hours marching and singing before the TV cameras and applauding loudly when asked. Telerama officials commented on the great spirit of friendship the girls shared with everyone. The club gave its support to every school activity through badges, posters and announcements made over the PA system. The girls picked new uniforms and took the responsibility to make them.

Sky View's JUNIOR VARSITY coached by Joe Robertson and Gordon Churchill raced through the season losing only one game to the Roy Royals. Led by quarterback Alan Maughan, the team's success was attributed to a balanced offense and defense. The team displayed a variety of good running and aerial attacks as well as a solid defense. Ending with a 4-4 record, the SOPHOMORE team met some tough opponents. The Sophomore gridders started the season by winning their first game against Bear River. The next two games they lost but, determined to get back on the right track, they won the next three games. They closed out the season by losing the last two games to Box Elder and Roy.

Taking fourth place in the Region meet, Sky View's CROSS-COUNTRY team completed the 1974 season. The Cats finished dual-meet competition with a 3-2 record. The success of a runner requires a great amount of individual discipline and work. Coached by Gary Swan team members started their running programs in the summer. They began their training by running three or four miles a day, working up to ten miles by the end of the summer. Sky View's Squad consisted mostly of juniors and sophomores with a few seniors sprinkled in. Mike Clawson, a sophomore, took the lead in many competitions and became Sky View's top runner. Close behind, Kevin Clawson, Burke Pitcher and Jim Loveland gave Coach Swan confidence during Region meets. Ending the 1974 season, the Sky View GOLF TEAM took fourth in the Region meet. The golfers held a two win - four loss record during the regular season. Tryouts for the team held at Summit Park Golf Course eliminated 12 of 23 sportsmen competing. Each golfer practiced two or three hours each day to improve techniques. Cameron Moser received medalist honors at the Region meet.

Finishing the season with a 5-7 Region record the VARSITY BASKETBALL team took fifth place in the Region. The team's setback came when they lost a number of close scoring games. Forward Val Gunnell, a top scorer in the Region, and players—Dean Egbert, Steve Speth

Sky View's JUNIOR VARSITY basketball under the direction of Ken Thompson finished the season with a 14-4 overall record. The team derailed all Region I opponents except Logan and Weber, and lost to two outside teams, Provo and Murray. The JV unit managed to control the ball in many situations with close scores at the end of the game. Top scorer Todd Johnson averaged 12 points and Tim Kohler 11 points per game. Beaten by Box Elder and Logan, the SOPHOMORE squad, coached by Joe Robertson, finished second in the Region. Top scorers on the team included Kim Moulton, Blake Pickett, Richard Spuhler and Nolan Taylor.

Events held during TRACK AND FIELD meets originated with ancient man as a means of self-defense. These events now used in interschool competition include running the mile, throwing the discus, clearing the bar in pole vaulting and doing long jumps. Bobcat trackmen worked many hours running long distances or concentrating on shorter races or sprints to condition their bodies for the meets. A number of returning lettermen formed the backbone of the squad. Mark Applegarth showed skill in jumping the high hurdles as did Neal Mower in throwing the javelin.

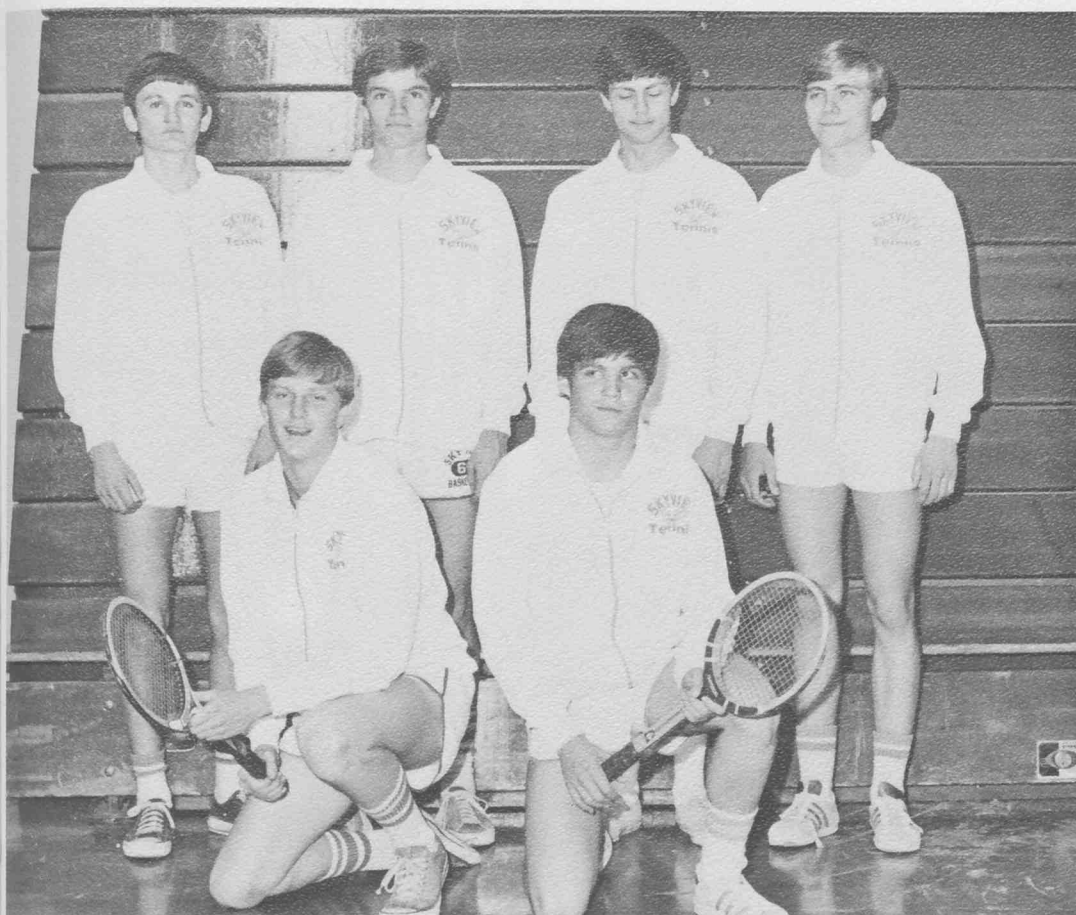

Top left: Craig Pickett works up to needed speed to complete successful jump in pole vaulting competition. Top right: Sky View tracksters work out to build up endurance and speed. Right: Straining hard, James Keeley winds up and prepares to send a javelin soaring through the air. Above: Hurdler, Mark Applegarth skillfully clears a high hurdle in spite of bad weather while preparing for Region competition.

With the change in the coaching staff at Sky View, Joe Robertson took over the BASEBALL team. Practicing to renew skill, team members strove for a winning season. Spring snow storms kept the team inside, delaying batting practices. The Bobcats started the season with an advantage, having a number of returning lettermen to man the ball diamond. Players Dave Jensen, Val Gunnell, Dean Egbert and Jerry Crossley teamed to spark the unit. TENNIS team members kept up the old Bobcat tradition and showed their abilities while in competition with other schools in the Region. Playing against tough determined opponents, Bobcats worked to retain the coveted crown they held the past few years. The season began with seven returning lettermen including three seniors Neal Dewey, Ryan Tew and Dean Egbert.

Seventeen well-qualified students received DEPARTMENTAL AWARDS by faculty selection. Deciding who would receive the awards was not easy. Department heads and teachers within the department considered grades and the number of classes taken in the area. Recipients of the awards received school recognition when presented with a plaque at Sky View's Awards Assembly.

Sketching a final draft, sewing on a button or obtaining another "A" on a history test gave ten students the opportunity to compete as STERLING SCHOLARS. Sky View's administration approved candidates who excelled in a particular department and displayed the ability to handle an interview. Compiling samples of their work, grade transcripts and letters of recommendation, each Sterling Scholar prepared a portfolio to be used in judging held on March 26. Sponsored by the Deseret News, the final competition, broadcast over KSL T.V. on April 19, revealed winners.
